10 Americans Among 27 Dead in Plane Crash on Irish Coast

RUSSIANS SHOOT DOWN U.S. PLANE

SLOWER, MORE ALERT DRIVING in school zones will be the order of the day beginning tomorrow when schools in Marion open. Signs like the one being placed in the middle of a street near a school will help remind motorists that driving even slower than the 20-mile-an-hour speed limit is the smart thing to do.

Watch for Children

Slow Down at Schools, Police Warn Motorists

Summer vacation ends tomorrow for school children in Marion and most nearby cities and towns. Shortly after 8 a.m. they will stream out of their homes bound for schools a few blocks away.

This does not signal the start of a vacation from careful, alert driving on the part of area motorists "because there won't be so many kids playing in the streets."

ON THE CONTRARY, it is a signal for all to drive more carefully and slower, particularly in school and residential zones.

To help make certain local motorists "get the signal" Marion school patrolmen will be on the job at all schools tomorrow morning and will serve as reminders that it's time to take it easy.

Also tomorrow morning, small signs in the replica of a policeman, made conspicuous by their absence during the last three months, will again be placed in the middle of streets near schools.

Across the front of the signs are the words "Slow — School Zone." Legally, the speed limit is 20 miles an hour in school zones, but for safety's sake, it's better to drive slow enough to be able to "stop on a dime" if need be.

YOUR ABILITY to do this will depend some on the conditions of your car and the road. On a dry pavement, and with good brakes and tires, it's possible to stop in 35-to-40 feet at 15 miles an hour, under other conditions the distance increases greatly.

So the rule for the day every day for the next nine months or so is to drive ever on the alert near schools, and keep a sharp lookout for a boy or girl who may run in front of your car, and above all drive slowly.

Police Chief Thomas Coon warns that speeding and other traffic law violations "absolutely will not be tolerated in school zones." All drivers found violating any laws or safe driving rules will be arrested and taken to Municipal Court, he said.

AT THE SAME TIME, parents should caution their school - age children to be careful on the way to school. Tell them to obey commands of the school patrolmen as well as all traffic signs and signals, Chief Coon advises.

Parents may also set good examples in traffic safety for their children by always obeying all pedestrian safety rules when walking with their children and always driving safely. Such actions will help develop the safety habit in the small fry, Chief Coon said.

Classes Start Tuesday

Nearly 7,500 Children Will Answer School Bell

Approximately 7,500 youngsters will answer the school bell Tuesday morning as the 1954-55 term begins for Marion's public and parochial school students.

More than 6,700 city school pupils will report at 8 45 a.m. while about 725 St. Mary students will return to classes at 9 a.m. In the public schools, about 3,600 pupils will be in the elementary grades; 1,900 in junior high; and 1,200 in Harding High.

St. Mary's will have about 560 students in the grades and 165 in high school.

HALF-DAY sessions are scheduled at both city schools and St. Mary on Tuesday. City schools will start full-day sessions Wednesday, except in first grade, while St. Mary will remain on a half-day schedule this week. Public school first graders will spend two weeks in half-day sessions before starting full days.

Enrollment in both city schools and St. Mary is up. About 400 more pupils are registered in city schools this year while St Mary will have approximately 75 more students. The largest increase is in the elementary grades in both systems.

ALONG WITH the high enrollments, teaching staffs have been increased. A total of 271 teachers, highest in history, will instruct in the city system while St Mary added an extra lay teacher this year.

Harding principal C. W. Gabler has issued special instructions for the first day of high school. Gabler asked all faculty members to report to the speech room at 8 a.m. for a meeting while students are to report to specified doors at 8:45 a m. Sophomores will report to the east door, juniors to

Deaths Hit 28 As One U.S. Survivor Dies

Royal Dutch Airliner Skims River, Plunges Into Shannon Mudflats

SHANNON AIRPORT, Ireland, Sept. 5 (AP) — A big KLM Royal Dutch airliner bound for New York with 56 persons crashed into the muddy River Shannon's broad mouth before dawn today. Twenty-seven persons, including 10 Americans, perished amid gagging gasoline fumes, rising flood tides, and slimy mud.

The toll rose to 28 with the death in a Shannon hospital tonight of an injured American survivor, Mrs. Caroline Platz of 3224 Grand Concourse, the Bronx, N. Y. She had suffered a fracture of the pelvis and other injuries.

Airline officials said most of those lost fainted from the gasoline fumes and were trapped and drowned inside the Super-Constellation. Some were feared buried alive while struggling across a mile of treacherous mud after escaping from the plane.

Wade for Hours

Twenty-nine survivors, 16 of them Americans, reached the bank after wading waist-deep for hours and praying as they crossed the mud. The survivors included 22 passengers and 7 crewmen. Three of the Dutch crew of 10, one a stewardess, perished.

The Americans missing and presumed dead were identified as.

Ashley Youth Killed in Utah Traffic Crash

A 22-year-old Ashley motorcyclist was killed Saturday night in a collision near Grantsville, Utah, a few miles west of Salt Lake City while enroute home from Oregon.

Daniel Paul Thurston, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Thurston of Ashley, was fatally injured when his motorcycle was struck by an automobile from the rear.

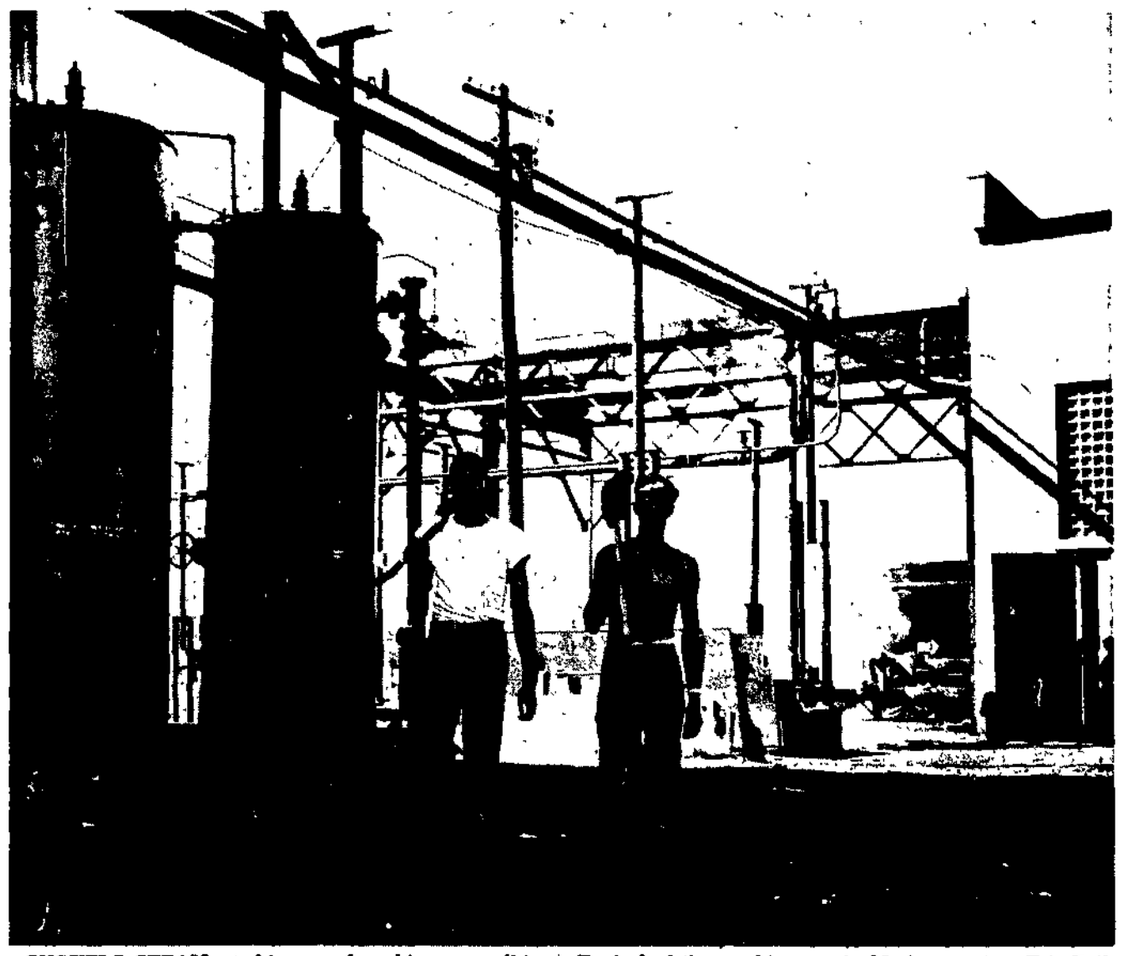
It was believed the Ohio youth was killed almost instantly.

Relatives at Ashley said he had been working for the federal government as a forest ranger in Oregon during the summer months. He was returning home by motorcycle and planned to study at Ohio State University this fall, they said.

The body is to be returned to the Ramsey-Bennett-Brown Funeral Home in Delaware and is expected to arrive late Wednesday. Burial and funeral arrangements were not completed Sunday night.

Born at the family home at Ashley in 1932, Daniel Paul Thurston is survived by his parents; four brothers, William, Ralph, David, and Richard, all at home; three sisters, Betty, a student at Ohio State, and Gertrude, at home, and Mrs. Rosina Tipton, of Mount Gilead; and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Osborn of near Ashley.

Nation Pays Honor to Workmen Today



SHOVELS, STEAM, machinery and workingmen—all integral parts of American industry—are hushed today as citizens throughout the land celebrate Labor Day. On the last long weekend of summer, Labor Day hails Mr. Average American, the fellow who keeps the U. S. system going. Typical of the workingmen in Marion are two Erie Railroad employes shown walking near the diesel shop. They are carpenter's helper Frank Jessie of 435 N. Crash Occurs Near Coast of Red Siberia

9 of 10 in Navy Crew Picked Up, 1 Missing; Protest Notes Traded

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (AP) — A two-engine U. S. Navy patrol plane was shot down in the Sea of Japan off Red Siberia yesterday, and today the Russian and American governments exchanged sharp protests over the incident.

One of the 10 men aboard the craft apparently was lost.

The State Department called it a "dastardly act" and rejected Moscow claims that the American plane had violated Soviet air territory. It said the U. S. plane was 44 miles from the Siberian coast — far beyond any recognized national limits of jurisdiction.

The nine other men aboard the plane, including two officers, were rescued after a night in the water. First reports indicated only one of these was injured.

The incident occurred at 5:1[illegible] a.m. EST Saturday.

Russia, protesting against a violation of Soviet "air space," said two Russian fighters had fired on an American military plane. Moscow radio said the Soviet Union had presented a formal note of protest claiming the American plane opened fire first.

Knowland Wires Ike

Sen Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, called for breaking off U.S. diplomatic relations with Russia. In a telegram to President Eisenhower in Denver, Knowland called the attack another example of Soviet arrogance and aggressiveness.

The Defense Department, in first announcing the incident, made no direct mention of any shots being exchanged but said the American plane had been "attacked by two jet aircraft, apparently MIG15 type, and forced down." The MIG15 is a Russian-designed craft.

As reports from the rescued crewmen reached Washington however, the Navy pieced together this story:

The American plane, a P2V Neptune, was on routine patrol, cruising approximately parallel with and about 44 miles from the coast of Siberia.

Spot Tracer Bullets

The crew's first hint of trouble, Navy officials said, came in the form of tracer bullets as the first jet plane came out of the sun, and made a pass without doing any damage.

A second jet came up underneath the patrol plane, also firing, the Navy said, and scored hits on the U.S. plane's wings.

The Navy said the U. S. plane did not return the fire.

Each of the jets, after making one pass, headed in the direction of the Siberian mainland. Three or four minutes later, a fire was noticed in the patrol plane's wing

Youth Admits 5 Burglaries; Bound to Jury

Second Boy Confesses Taking Part in One; Faces Juvenile Court

A series of five burglaries in Marion was marked "solved" by city police Saturday with the arrest of two Marion youths, one 16 and the other 18 years old.

Police Chief Thomas Coon said Sunday that the 16-year-old was taken into custody at 2:38 a.m. Friday and later admitted that he had taken part in the burglary of the Doyle Distributing Co. garage at 267 Davids St. on Aug. 26.

In further questioning he also implicated Ronald Daugherty, 18, of near Marion in the same break-in.

Daugherty was also taken into custody by city police Saturday and later admitted his part in this break-in as well as break-ins at three other business places, Chief Coon said.

Crashes at Dayton

Jet Pilot Sets New Mark, Dies Trying To Better It

DAYTON, Ohio, Sept. 5 (AP)—An Air Force pilot, who established a new world speed mark only last Friday, was killed today when his jet fighter crashed during another assault on the record at the National Aircraft Show here.

Maj. John L. Armstrong, 32, of nearby Fairborn, died when his low-flying F96H Saberjet crashed in a field 10 miles from Cox Municipal Airport at nearby Vandalia, where a holiday crowd of 101,237 was awaiting Armstrong's flight in the General Electric Trophy event.

Cause Not Determined

Cause of the crash was not determined. Parts of the plane were scattered over a two-mile area.

About an hour before the crash, the Air Force had announced Armstrong had broken the record last Friday for the 500-kilometer—310 miles—closed course, at 649.302 m.p.h. That was 42 m.p.h. faster than the record for the distance established last May by Capt. Anders Westerlound of the Swedish air force at 67.1 m.p.h.

Armstrong was to have made another try to beat his own record today. When he crashed, he was preparing for the G.E. Trophy event, five laps around a 100-kilometer—61 miles—course.

Record Will Stand

Despite his death, his record will stand as the trophy winner. He was the only entrant.

It was the first fatal crash in the National Aircraft Show since it was started as a substitute for

Heat Hits Area, Mercury at 95

Mid-summer heat returned to Marion Sunday as a blazing sun pushed the temperature to 95 degrees.

A gentle breeze helped make the heat bearable in the shade, but persons engaged in outdoor activity — golfers, tennis players, home owners working on their lawns — found the day sweltering. Swimming pools in the area were crowded.

By 7 o'clock Sunday night, the temperature had dropped only 10 degrees to 85.

The low reading for the night was expected to be in the high 60s and the forecast for today was mostly fair, except for a chance of scattered thundershowers over the north. The high temperature for today was forecast as from the 80s in the extreme north part of the state to near 100 in the south.

Saturday night, the low reading was 65.

8-Nation Talks On Asian Pact Open in Manila

Only 2 Major Blocks To Defense Treaty in Pacific Seen at Outset

MANILA, Monday, Sept. 6 (AP)—Delegates representing 370 million people meet here today to hang a "no trespassing" sign across the doorstep of free Asia.

As the time for the eight-nation Southeast Asia Security Conference approached, only two apparent major differences faced the assembled foreign ministers or their delegated representatives.

Within the next few days Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, Pakistan, the Philippines, and the United States are expected to decide:

1. How the proposed pact against Communist aggression could best be worded to guarantee collective security for the free nations of Asia.

2. Exactly where the "no tres-

2-Day Toll Under 200

Traffic Deaths in Nation Running Below Estimate

By The Associated Press

Deaths on the nation's highways Sunday were falling short of the grim forecast made by safety experts for the Labor Day weekend.

The National Safety Council expressed guarded optimism the traffic toll for the 78-hour holiday would be less than its estimate of 390 dead.

The first two days of the weekend passed with 164 traffic deaths reported. In addition, 18 persons drowned and miscellaneous accidents claimed 19 lives—a violent death toll of 201.

Guard Units Patrol

Although the traffic death count is expected to surge in the last part of the holiday as millions of motorists trek home from vacation areas, Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, said:

"Traffic deaths are running below our estimate. We hope they keep it up."

The experts said National Guardsmen who are keeping highway vigils in three states may be partially responsible for the lower toll.

President Eisenhower, deploring the council's estimate as a "grim forecast," appealed to motorists "to fool the experts" by driving carefully.

May Surge Today

Michigan, which led the nation in fatal traffic accidents—with 35 over the July 4 weekend—proclaimed a state of emergency and ordered National Guard units to highway patrol duty.

In neighboring Wisconsin, Gov. Walter Kohler Jr. ordered similar measures In Tennessee, some 300 guard volunteers bolstered state highway patrolmen. Louisiana

Third Consecutive Day

Red Chinese Continuing Quemoy Bombardment

TAIPHE, Formosa, Monday, Sept. 6 (AP) — Chinese Communists were reported today to have shelled—for the third successive day—Quemoy Island, where two U.S. officers were killed Friday.

There was no confirmation of the reports, which came even as top U.S. and Nationalist Chinese officers conferred on the Red attacks.

Other unverified reports said Nationalist air force planes had attacked Red-held islands and mainland points from which Quemoy had been shelled.

Paper Reports Retaliation

The English language China News reported:

"Daredevil Chinese (Nationalist) planes showered bombs and rockets all day Saturday on Communist shore batteries. Military authorities did not confirm the information, but it was learned that low-flying Thunderbolts . . . mercilessly pounded Communist gunposts ringing Quemoy. Red positions on small islands received especially heavy bombardment"

Peiping Radio Saturday said Nationalist fighter planes had bombed Amoy, near Quemoy Island on the China coast. It said one plane was shot down, another damaged.

There was no announcement of what action, if any, was decided upon at the conference of U.S. and Nationalist officers.

Differ on Red's Intent

The general impression in Taipeh, where the public has shown little concern about the attacks on Quemoy, is that there is at least an even chance that the Reds actually will attempt to seize Quemoy.

Some quarters, however, think that the Communists are more interested in trying to learn whether U.S. 7th Fleet would intervene if

$200,000 Fire Hits Boardwalk

11 Shops Damaged in Blaze at Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 5 (AP) — A lightning-fast general alarm fire, clearly visible to tens of thousands of Labor Day visitors, damaged 11 shops on the famed boardwalk and the facade of Steeplechase Pier today.

The flames, fanned by stiff breezes off the Atlantic Ocean, gutted the fronts of seven shops on one side of the boardwalk, leaped across the wide wooden promenade and damaged four more on the pier.

Damage was estimated at $200,000 to the stores and $25,000 to the boardwalk. The blaze started shortly before 4 p.m., apparently under the boardwalk, and was reported extinguished within an hour after a battle by a small army of firemen from here and nearby Ocean City.

Wanton Attack Denounced in Reply to Russia

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The United States tonight denounced as "wanton and unprovoked" an attack by two Russian fighter planes on a U. S. Navy patrol bomber off Siberia. It said the Russians fired without warning and that the Navy plane never fired at all.

At the same time the United States rejected "as completely without foundation" a Moscow protest that the American patrol bomber had violated Russia's air space and had fired on the two Soviet fighters.

The United States also asked that those responsible for the attack be given "immediate and appropriate punishment."

The State Department released the two notes—the protest and the rejection of Russia's claims—with extraordinary speed, apparently to counter the effect of the Soviet contention that the American aircraft opened fire first.

The note rejecting the Russian protest was very specific on this point, asserting that "at no time did the U. S. Navy aircraft open fire on the Soviet aircraft."

In addition to demanding punishment as a deterrent to "such wanton and unprovoked attacks" the United States served notice that it was reserving its rights to claim damages for loss of property and lives. Of 10 persons aboard the Navy plane nine were rescued from the Sea of Japan and one was listed as missing.

Plane

and it was forced to ditch, hitting the water at a speed of about 100 miles an hour.

Navigator Trapped

The nose of the plane collapsed and its tail was knocked off. Nine of the crewmen escaped in lifejackets but the navigator, Ens. Roger Henry Reid, Alameda, Calif. apparently was trapped in the navigator's compartment.

The plane sank almost immediately.

The Navy said that although the crewmen reported the attacking jets were apparently of the MIG15 type, they saw no markings to identify the attackers' nationality.

The U.S. Air Force in Tokyo said merely the "plane went down shortly after 6 p.m. (Japan time) Saturday and was ditched successfully by the pilot."

The pilot was listed as Cmdr. John Booth Wayne of Alameda, Calif., who was among those rescued.

Search Called Off

The Air Force in Tokyo said the search for Reid was called off at 2 p.m. Sunday, "after the area was completely covered."

In the initial announcement, Asst. Secretary of Defense Fred A. Seaton said the Neptune was on a routine patrol when it was attacked at 6:18 p.m. Sept. 4 local time.

44 Miles Off Mainland

He said the Neptune was forced down in the Sea of Japan approximately 100 miles east of Vladivostok and 44 miles from the Siberian mainland. A Tokyo dispatch placed the scene as 125 miles southeast of Vladivostok, the big Soviet port just north of Korea.

The Soviet note of protest said shots were exchanged when a twin-engined plane of the Neptune type, with U.S. Air Force markings, was found violating "the state frontier of the U.S.S.R. in the area of Cape Ostrovnoi, east of Port Nakhodka."

It placed the time as 7:12 p.m., Vladivostok time.

The Russian note, handed to the American Embassy in Moscow, said:

"When two Soviet fighters approached the violating U.S. plane for the purpose of indicating to it that the plane was within the boundaries of the U.S.S.R., and of proposing that it should leave immediately the air space of the Soviet Union, the American plane opened fire on them. In connection with this, the Soviet planes were forced to open fire in return, after which the American plane flew off in the direction of the sea.

Statement Continues

"The Soviet government deems it necessary to draw the attention of the government of the U.S.A. to the fact that this is not the first case of violation by American military planes of the state frontier of the U.S.S.R.

"The Soviet government makes a resolute protest to the government of the U.S.A. against this gross new violation of the Soviet frontier by a U.S. military aircraft; insists that the persons guilty of this violation be severely dealt with, and expects that the government of the U.S.A. will immediately take steps for the prevention in future of the violation by U.S. planes of the state frontier of the Soviet Union."

The scene of the attack was far to the north of the Chinese Nationalist held island of Quemoy, which has been under shelling by Red artillery on the Chinese mainland.

Not Linked To Quemoy

It thus apparently was in no way connected with the Defense Department's announcement yesterday that "we are alert to our responsibilities" in the Quemoy area and "certain units of our fleet are at sea."

The Quemoy situation came in for a long distance conference during the day between President Eisenhower, at his Denver vacation quarters, and Pentagon officials here.

The incident recalled another on July 28, 1953, when a B50 American plane was shot down with the loss of 16 of the 17 crewmen. Capt. John Ernest Roche, the only survivor picked up, said his plane was attacked "without provocation" by one or two Russian jets at a time when there was "no possible chance" that it was closer than 40 miles to Siberia.

Several months earlier, on March 15, a B50 was attacked by Soviet MIG fighters over Arctic waters about 25 miles east of the Siberian peninsula of Kamchatka, but was not damaged.

Receive Distress Call

Word from Tokyo said a distress call was received from the Neptune at 6:18 p.m., Japan time, but since it was impossible for rescue craft to reach it before dark the rescue plane was dispatched at midnight to reach the scene by daylight.

In addition to planes of the air-sea rescue service, two U.S. destroyers were sent to the area. They were the Brush and the Maddox. Neither participated in the rescue, however.

The rescue planes included five SA16 amphibians, one SB29, and one B29 Superfort, the Air Force announcement said. It continued:

"Dispatch of the rescue aircraft was coordinated so that the communications plane arrived at the midway point between the downed flyers and Misawa Air Installation on northern Honshu, the local point of the rescue operations, on schedule and kept the five FEAF SA16's and the SB29 in touch with each other and with their home bases.

Spots Signal Flares

"The SB29 arrived at the scene first just before daylight and immediately spotted signal flares on the surface of the water. The SA16s were vectored to the area, where four of them landed and picked up the nine survivors from life rafts.

"The rescued men were immediately flown to Misawa Air Installation, where eight were reported to be in good condition. First reports indicated that the ninth man was injured.

"The SB29 and one SA16 amphibian remained in the area searching for the 10th crew member until 2 p.m., Sunday afternoon, when the search was called off after the area was completely covered."

The following survivors, plucked from the sea by U.S. sea - air rescue units, were listed.

Cmdr John Booth Wayne, USN, pilot, Alameda.

Ens. John Charles Fisher, Alcatraz, Calif.

William Albert Bedard, aviation machinist mate, Worcester, Mass.

Frank Edgar Petty, aviation electronics machinist mate 3-C., Austin, Tex.

Parade, Beauty Contests Highlight Richwood Fair

Estimated 3,000 Attend Opening Session of Three-Day Event

RICHWOOD — Talent Day of the 1954 Richwood Fair was highlighted Sunday with a colorful parade, beauty queen contests and baton twirling, as the second day of the annual program got under way.

Some 712 entries for various contests were recorded during the day and the grandstand had practically a "full house" for each of the contests which were sponsored in the afternoon.

MORE THAN 100 trophies were presented to winners in each of the varied parade divisions, including decorated convertibles, animal, riding horses, military and marching units, decorated bicycles, antique autos, school groups and commercial entrants. The Richwood High School Band, Waldo School Band, Scout organizations and Granges from the area were represented in the parade. The Richwood Future Farmers of America float was presented the grand trophy for all parade divisions.

Following the parade, beauty contests were held in front of the grandstand. In the Richwood Fair beauty queen competition for girls attired in formals, the winner was Miss Ruth Ann Nethery of Cleveland. Miss Carol Ann Holycross of Marysville was named beauty queen in the contest especially for Union County entrants. Winner in the bathing beauty contest was Miss Cheri Dodson of Columbus.

THE THREE-DAY fair opened Saturday with an estimated attendance of 3,000. Sunny skies and warm weather prevailed for the first two days of the fair schedule. Junior fair judging opened the Saturday morning fairgrounds activity and in the afternoon five harness races were featured. A variety show was held in the evening in front of the grandstand.

As the fair program entered its third and final day, Labor Day, visitors were slated to watch open class judging of cattle, swine and sheep, afternoon harness racing, a livestock and machinery parade and stock car races, which will wind up the fair Monday night.

TYPICAL SCENES AT THE RICHWOOD FAIR Sunday afternoon. More than 100 trophies were awarded and 1954 fair beauty queens were selected.

UPPER: The Richwood Future Farmers of America float took the parade grand trophy for all divisions. Sam Burbaugh is shown presenting the trophy to Bill Randall and Bill Douglas.

Register Stolen At Plant Found In Old Quarry

A cash register stolen in a break-in at the Tecumseh Products Co. Marion Division, cafeteria on Aug. 18, was found Sunday morning in an abandoned stone quarry north of Marion.

Richard Kepler of 708 Wood St found the badly smashed cash register while walking around the quarry Sunday morning and hauled it to the city police station where it was identified as the one stolen from the cafeteria.

The cash drawer of the register had been pried open and some $285 taken. The break-in occurred during the night on Aug. 18, when a fence at the west side of the plant was scaled and an unlocked window near the cafeteria entered.

Police at the time of break-in reported the cash register was taken from the building and apparently was tossed over the fence. Police Chief Thomas Coon said Sunday that the register was apparently tossed into the stone quarry after the cash drawer was pried open.

Burglaries

Daugherty was taken before Municipal Court Judge W. Dexter Hazen Saturday charged with burglarizing the distributing company building. He pleaded guilty and was bound over to the Marion County Grand Jury under $3,000 bond.

Chief Coon said the 16-year-old, who was not involved in any of the other burglaries admitted by Daugherty, will be taken before Marion County Juvenile Court this week.

In the burglary at the distributing company building, the two youths admitted taking seven cases of beer, a case of wine, some sliced ham, and $8 in money, police said.

Other Burglaries

Other break-ins admitted to by Daugherty according to police were as follows:

The Miller Transfer, Inc., office on Harding Highway east, on June 23, in which the office was ransacked and a vending machine broken into with the theft of about $20 in small change.

Courtney's Shell filling station at Baker and Center Sts. on Aug. 13 and again a few days later. The station was ransacked on the first break-in and about $24 taken. Some candy and cigarets were taken in the second break-in. Police had no report of this because entrance was gained through an unlocked window and the stolen items were not missed.

Sohio filling station at Harcourt Pl. and E. Center St. in which about $20 was taken along with two gallons of oil and a carton of cigarets. This was not previously reported to police, Chief Coon said.

Gromyko Hands Note To U.S. Ambassador

MOSCOW, Sept. 5 (AP)— Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko called U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen late today, apologized for interrupting his Sunday holiday, and asked him to come to the Foreign Office on a matter of "some urgency."

When Bohlen arrived, Gromyko handed him the Soviet note protesting what it termed a violation of Siberian air space by an American Neptune patrol bomber.

The ambassador said his embassy had not yet received the Washington version of the incident, and therefore would make no comment.

MALES, BEWARE!

UNION, N. J. (UP) — Every Tuesday night, 70 housewives, working girls and teen-agers gather at the Civic Center for first-hand instruction on how to hold a man, throw him over and pin him down. They take free jiu-jitsu lessons from Stanley J. Sussina, who used to teach the defense art in the Army.

Slow Down

All this will help Marion avoid becoming one of those communities in the nation in which a total of 4,000 boys and girls under 15 will be struck down and killed by automobiles this year.

—:—

OHIO TRAFFIC fatality records show that the number of children killed and hurt in traffic always climbs in September and October.

"Last year, thanks to the cooperation of local motorists and the help of the school patrol, Marion did not have a single boy or girl hurt in traffic accidents on the way to or from school," Coon said.

"Let's keep it that way this year," he added, and asked drivers to remember "to take care because a child may dare."

Traffic

state police airplanes dropped thousands of safety leaflets in another measure to save motorists' lives.

Last year's Labor Day holiday claimed 405 traffic victims with an over-all violent death toll of 574, including 70 drownings and 99 miscellaneous fatal accidents.

The record Labor Day weekend traffic toll took a record 461 lives in 1951 and helped set the record over-all death count of 658.

A nonholiday 78-hour sample period, extending from 6 p.m. Friday, Aug. 20 to midnight Monday, Aug. 23, showed 346 persons lost their lives through traffic accidents. Another 43 persons drowned and 104 died from miscellaneous causes to boost the total to 493.

passing" sign would be posted.

Although there was frank disappointment in many circles because the draft of the proposed treaty did not more closely resemble the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, everyone seemed agreed that the intent of the conference—to halt communism aggression in Asia—was clearly understood and supported by all.

Wording of the draft text given the conference delegates is similar to the Australia-New Zealand-United States (ANZUS) pact. This agreement specifies that the signatories are united for military action "in accordance with their constitutional processes." NATO, on the other hand, declares that 'an attack on one is an attack on all." But another section of NATO specifies that the constitutional processes of the nations involved will have to be met.

Another obstacle involves description of the potential aggressor as Communist.

Woman Shoots, Kills Husband

Electrician at Atomic Plant Shotgun Victim

WAVERLY, Ohio, Sept. 5 (AP)— Sheriff Jesse Foster said a 40-year-old woman tonight shot and killed her husband in their trailer home near here.

Dead was Harold Willard Long 42, an electrician at the nearby Portsmouth Area atomic plant.

The sheriff said Long was shot at close range in the stomach with a 12-gauge shotgun. He was found on the floor of the trailer at Sunset Trailer Park.

Sheriff Foster said the wife Kathryn, told him Long had been drinking and arguing all day.

Mrs. Long is being held in Pike County jail. The sheriff said he will file charges tomorrow. The wife is suffering from shock, Foster said, and unable to be quesuoned further.

Crash

Eighteen hours after the crash a rescue launch landed 25 bodies taken from the plane.

It was the second crash of a KLM airliner with heavy loss of life in 13 days. A Skymaster crashed into the North Sea Aug. 23 after a stopover here on a flight from New York to Amsterdam. All 21 persons aboard that plane, including a dozen Americans, were killed.

Today's crash was only two miles from the airport in the Shannon estuary. The river, belying the silvery adjectives of the songs about it, is brown with mud. At low tide there is a stretch of treacherous, slimy muck often more than a mile wide separating the river bank from the water.

No Sign of Life

Gen. I. A. Aler, KLM president who hurried to the scene from Dublin, told newsmen:

"When everyone in the plane whom the crew could bring to the boats or who could get to them themselves was in the boats, the water was rising in the plane neck high. There was no sign of life. The captain decided that no one (else) could be saved, and the dinghy pulled away from the plane."

Aler, who talked with the surviving crewmen, said everything appeared normal as the plane took off with its full complement of passengers and baggage. He said he was assured by the captain the plane was climbing normally, despite some reports it appeared to have difficulty in gaining altitude. Then, after only about two minutes of flying time, when the crew had noted no "unusual disturbances," the airliner, "on throttle for four engines, struck water," Aler said.

Not Forced Landing

"There was no question of the plane attempting a forced landing," the KLM president said.

The plane's navigator, who swam to the mud flat and then crawled to the bank, brought first word of the crash to the airport.

No one could say immediately what caused the crash. The plane had taken off into a fairly strong southwest wind toward the old Foynes base on the river used by flying boats in World War II.

"From what we have heard," a KLM spokesman said, "it suggests that something happened almost immediately after the plane left the runway and the pilot forcelanded on a mud-bank the other side of the river near the old base."

The pilot, Capt. Adriaan Viruly, 49, one of Holland's best known airmen, with more than two million flying miles to his credit, helped survivors in the water until nearly exhausted himself, when he was pulled into a rubber boat.

Happened Quickly

The surviving passengers had only nightmarish impressions of the fate that struck the airliner suddenly and without warning.

Dr. Ernest H. Bettman, orthopedic surgeon of White Plains, N. Y., said:

"It all happened so quickly we did not know what was going on until the water was up to our knees in the cabin.

"The lights went out, and the passeners ran up and down the plane in the dark screaming and praying. Something burst, and fuel and water poured in. The fumes were terrible, and many people passed out. Then the air cleared as if someone opened a window. The officers managed to calm the passengers and people were pushed to the emergency exits into dinghies."

Cleveland Crash Kills 3 Teen-Agers

CLEVELAND, Sept. 5 (AP)—Three West Side teenagers died in Metropolitan Park at Rocky River last night when an automobile crashed into a bridge abutment, overturned and burned.

Killed were Carolyn Beane, 18, who was thrown clear of the old sedan; and Mary Ellen Moinette, 15, and Jim Crosby, 17, who were trapped in the flaming wreckage for about an hour.

Formosa Still Protected by U.S. 7th Fleet

DENVER, Sept. 5 (AP)—President Eisenhower conferred with Defense Department officials in Washington today on the shelling of the Chinese Nationalist held island of Quemoy from the Red China mainland.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen about the conversations and added, in response to questions, that the president's orders to the U.S. 7th Fleet to protect Formosa—the island bastion of the Nationalists—from any Red attack "have not been changed."

Contacts Officials

The President got in touch with Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith and Deputy Secretary of Defense Robert Anderson shortly after he and Mrs. Eisenhower returned from church here.

Asked whether Eisenhower is concerned about the Red attack on Quemoy, Hagerty replied, he was not going to answer that. Then he said that "the orders to the 7th Fleet have not been changed, and I refer you to the President's press conference statement."

That was a reference to the Eisenhower assertion that any Communist attempt to invade Formosa would have to run over the 7th Fleet.

In response to another question, Hagerty also declined to tell newsmen anything about Eisenhower's reaction to the killing of the two U.S. Army officers at Quemoy.

On another foreign affairs matter, Hagerty was asked whether Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain has been in touch with Eisenhower about killing of the European army project by the French Parliament last week.

'In Constant Touch'

Hagerty replied that Eisenhower and Churchill have been in "constant touch" ever since Eisenhower became President in January 1953. He refused to say, however, whether any recent communication has dealt with the six-nation army project and the situation created by French rejection of it.

The President and the First Lady attended services at Corona Presbyterian Church where Mrs. Eisenhower attended Sunday School classes as a girl.

The family planned a quiet labor day weekend. The President got in some work on a nationwide television and radio speech he will make tomorrow in taking part in ground breaking ceremonies for the nation's first atomic power plant for peaceful purposes.

The plant will be constructed at Shippingport, Pa., near Pittsburgh.

Quemoy

Quemoy, or any of the other offshore Nationalist islands, is invaded.

The 7th Fleet has been assigned to guard Formosa, Nationalist headquarters, against Communist invasion. Yesterday in Washington Fred A. Seaton, assistant secretary of defense, told reporters "we are alert to our responsibilities in the area" of Quemoy. He added he was not aware of any "specific orders" to the 7th Fleet to protect any points other than Formosa.

Most competent quarters here feel that the Reds—if they think they can get away with it—might try to overwhelm some of the Nationalists' island outposts and thus give some substance to their boast that they will "liberate" Formosa.

It is conceded that if the Reds could score a victory at Quemoy, it would have a damaging effect on the whole Nationalist cause—that it would be a heavy blow to those who have been contending that Chiang Kai-shek's forces are made of different stuff today than while they were fighting the Reds on the mainland.

The Communist bombardment of Quemoy Friday and Saturday at least put the defenders on the alert for a possible invasion and caused other steps to be taken.

What these steps are is a secret.

The Reds, however, have lost the advantage of surprise by not following up Friday's five - hour bombardment with an immediate invasion. Had they done so, they might have had better chance of success than they would today.

Peiping Claims Dozen Vessels Sunk by Shelling

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Peiping Radio, in a dispatch from what it called "the Fukien front," said tonight a dozen or so Chinese Nationalist naval vessels were destroyed in Friday's bombardment of the Nationalist island of Quemoy.

Nationalist sources denied any ships were hit and said many of the Red shells fell into the sea.

the old national air races, once held in Cleveland and Detroit.

A crash in 1949 was largely responsible for the end of the air races in Cleveland.

William P. Odem, famed 29-year-old round - the - world flyer, was killed Sept. 5, 1949, in a Labor Day Thompson Trophy race at Cleveland Airport. On the second lap his F51, traveling about 333 m.p.h., crashed into a house in a Cleveland suburb after first hitting an attached garage. At the house, Mrs. Bradley Laird, 24, and her 13-month-old son, Craig, were killed.

Witnesses Crash

Clyde Fulton, manager of the George Christopher estate, Tipp City, saw the crash while sitting on his front porch watching air show planes fly by.

He said:

"I heard the explosion and he was a ball of fire flying in pieces. He was coming in from the southwest."

Another eyewitness was D. A. Rousseau, a Tipp City funeral director, who was leading a funeral procession.

"He just flew to pieces and scattered all over the place," Rousseau said.

A part of the plane dropped within 500 feet of the funeral procession. Rousseau removed the piece from the road so the cars could continue to the cemetery.

Scattered Over 100 Acres

Cpl. W. D. Braucher of the State Highway Patrol, assigned to help handle heavy air show traffic, said the plane wreckage was scattered over a 100-acre area.

The plane crashed on one side of the Miami River and the tail and tail pipe bounced over the river, Air Force investigators said. They were unable to find the jet engine immediately and thought it might be in the river.

Capt. Harold H. Sperber of Armstrong's unit, the Flight Test Center at Wright-Patterson AFB, was driving by the area and saw the crash.

Capt. Sperber said Armstrong was in a high speed turn at about 300 feet. The low altitude was required by the GE Trophy rules.

Win Trophy

In the other major events today, for the Allison Trophy, the pilot's radar observer team of 2nd Lt. William J. Knight of Mansfield, Ohio, pilot, and 2nd Lt. William J. Seiler of Tulsa, Okla., radar observer, climbed to an altitude of 1,000 feet in two minutes and seven seconds to win the trophy.

The two lieutenants comprised an alternate team, one of two which stood by to take the place of any principals who failed to leave the ground. Most men represented the Air Defense Command and are stationed at Kinross AFB, Michigan.

Mansfield Man, Aide Win Allison Trophy

DAYTON, Ohio, Sept. 5 (AP)—An Air Force lieutenant from Mansfield, Ohio, and his radar observer climbed to a 10,000 foot altitude in two minutes seven seconds today to win the Allison Trophy at the National Aircraft Show.

The winning team from the Air Defense Command's 438th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron based at Kinross AFB was 2nd Lt. William J. Knight, pilot, and 2nd Lt. William K. Seltars of Tulsa, Okla.

Second were Capt. Thomas H. Forythe, pilot of Charlotte, N.C., and Capt. Frank J. Bosch, radar observer at Levittown, N.Y.

Traffic Cases

Four Marion motorists arrested and charged with failure to heed traffic tickets issued them each pleaded guilty in Municipal Court Saturday and were fined a total of $20 and costs.

The drivers and their fines were: Norman Blackford, 24, of 453 Windsor St., $4 and costs; Richard R. Weis, 24, of 316½ Girard Ave., $6 and costs; Ronald W. Miller, 22, of 186½ S. Main St., $5 and costs; and Mary Peifer of 217 Uhler Ave., $5 and costs.

District Traffic Cases

The Marion post of the state highway patrol reported 11 traffic arrests in surrounding counties Sunday.

Arrested for yellow line violations were:

Edward H. Phillips, 32, Niagara Falls, N. Y., fined $15 and costs by Mayor Don Healea of Cardington; William H. Robinson, 46, Cuyahoga Falls, $10 and costs by Mayor Emery Murphy of Mount Gilead; Lincoln W. Shutt, 40, Canton, fined $15 and costs by Mayor Healea; and James Cocher, 19, Erie, Pa., fined $30 and costs by Mayor Healea.

Arrested for speeding were: Hayden J. Mitchell, 28, Bedford, fined $25 and costs by Mayor Murphy; Luther H. McCarty, 31, Tecumseh, Mich., posted bond to appear before Municipal Judge Henry Wolf of Delaware Sept. 18; Richard L. Iden, 21, 215 Ellis Ct., cited to appear before Mayor Murphy Sept. 11; Phillip Frey, 61, Cleveland, fined $15 and costs by Mayor Ted Anderson of Ashley; and Anthony Spagnola, 40, of Tuscon, Ariz., fined $15 and costs by Mayor Healea.

Two drivers were arrested for reckless driving. They were: Clyde Wright, 27, Detroit, cited to appear before Judge Wolf Sept. 18; and William W. Gaylor, 28, Lakewood, fined $30 and costs by Mayor Healea.

Public Law 557

By George Sokolsky

One of the most serious effects of our failure in the so-called cold war against Soviet Russia is that Congress and the administration are being forced by legislation to fight that strange institution, the Communist Party, U.S.A., which while small in numbers makes a terrific impact upon this country. One of the laws is designed to make it difficult for those who belong to this party to publish books, pamphlets, newspapers, circulars, etc.

SOKOLSKY

Up to this year, no law of this nature existed on our statute books, except that the Post Office was given authority to reject certain salacious, immoral, or indecent matter through the mails. Over the years, the Post Office has used these powers lightly.

Public Law 557 — 83rd Congress, in effect, sets up a power in the Attorney General's office to determine whether any printing establishment is engaged in publishing Communist literature. The law does now give the Attorney General much power to do anything about it, but he may compile lists of such printing companies and there is no reason why he may not publish such lists, and in the present state of public opinion, it is possible that printers so listed may find themselves without customers.

THE NEW LAW, which is an amendment to the Internal Security Act, is short and altogether clear. It reads:

"(6) A listing, in such form and detail as the Attorney General shall by regulation prescribe, of all printing presses and machines including but not limited to rotary presses, flatbed cylinder presses, platen presses, lithographs, offsets, photo-offsets, mimeograph machines, multigraph machines, multilith machines, duplicating machines, ditto machines, linotype machines, intertype machines, monotype machines, and all other types of printing presses, typesetting machines or any mechanical devices used or intended to be used, or capable of being used to produce or publish printed matter or material, which are in the possession, custody, ownership, or control of the Communist-action or Communist-front organization or its officers, members, affiliates, associates, group, or groups in which the Communist-action or Communist-front organization, its officers or members have an interest."

MANY MORE THAN the Communists come within the provisions of this law. Let us say that an important book publisher is discovered to have among its officers a person who has appeared before a Congressional committee and in reply to a question as to whether he belonged to an organization which appeared on the Attorney General's list of subversive organizations, either said "Yes," or took a plea of the "Fifth Amendment." The publisher issues, let us say, many general books, among them some by Communists or fellow-travellers. Would such a company come within the provisions of this act?

Or, to continue hypothetically, could it apply to a national magazine, one or more of whose editors were proven Communists and the magazine published an interview with Malenkov or Molotov or even with William Z. Foster? Would it apply if the publisher was not aware of his editor's relation to the universal conspiracy?

We have here something altogether new in American life. There is no licensing of the printing business because that would be a violation of the First Amendment, under which a Communist or anarchist or Fascist press has as much right to exist as the newspaper you are now reading. This new law simply lists firms employing various devices for making available a publication. Then the government would depend upon public opinion.

THIS COUNTRY HAS NOT known the secret printing establishments, which have existed for a century of revolution in Europe and more recently in Asia. In many countries, all enterprises associated with any kind of publication have to be licensed and the license can be revoked at any time without much due process of the law. In Czarist Russia, there used to be a sort of whipping boy, the nominal editor who went to jail when a license was revoked, so that the real editor or publisher might not be incarcerated.

We are not coming to anything like that in this country, but the fight against Communism is forcing us to take measures which this nation has happily avoided in the past. Perhaps had the Communists been taken more seriously when they were doing their greatest damage, we should not have come to the day when such a law as Public Law 557 would have been even considered.

SEA-BORN TWINS. Cynthia Sue and Valerie Lou Henry, first twins ever born aboard a U. S. Navy vessel, are admired by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James William Henry of Franklin, Neb., in a New York hospital. The twins were born aboard the "Geiger" Aug. 26. The mother was one of 350 civilians picked up at Casablanca. The father, a Navy communications technician, third class, was granted an emergency leave by the Navy so he could meet his wife and daughter at Staten Island.

Ohio's Entrant Early Bird for 'Miss America'

ATLANTIC CITY, N. Y., Sept. 5 (AP) — A trim little brown-eyed brunette from Alliance, Ohio, won early bird honors today in the Miss America pageant.

Miss Ohio — Barbara Maxine Quinlan—a 2-year-old Ohio State University coed, rolled into town well ahead of the 49 other girls who will match curves, talent and personality here this week.

The bathing beauties officially register for the pageant tomorrow. Then they whirl away for five days of strenuous competition for the title of Miss America 1955 and $50,000 in awards.

The nation's new beauty queen will be crowned in convention hall Saturday night in a nationally televised show. The winner succeeds Evelyn Ay of Ephrata, Pa., Miss America 1954.

"So far I'm calm," Miss Ohio told newsmen. But she couldn't hide the fact that she was thrilled to see the ocean for the first time.

And she wasn't sure she'd be so calm when the judging starts Wednesday night.

Miss Georgia—Mary Jane Doar of Macon—and Miss South Dakota —Cleo Ann Harrington of Colman—also arrived in the pageant vanguard today.

The 50 contestants are from 44 states, New York City, Chicago, District of Columbia, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and Canada.

There are 75 species of North American violets found in this country.

Red Strategy

By Victor Riesel

Within an hour after the summer White House had announced that President Eisenhower would sign the bill outlawing the Communist Party, the Communist underground was acting on detailedly prepared instructions for operation as an illegal apparatus.

RIESEL

The new underground strategy, which can now be revealed here, is aimed at using legitimate as well as pro-Communist unions to camouflage Communist Party meetings and propaganda. So this is being written as an alert as well as a report.

Here are some of the Party's secret instructions:

Communist Party clubs are to be cut down from a maximum of five members to a top roster of three tovarischi, preferably two. Clubs, or cells, are never to meet in anyone's home again.

Instead, each tiny cadre is to meet in a union hall, union cafeteria, day room, hiring hall or, if possible, in the union office itself.

All strategy and all propaganda is to be worked out at such sessions in the halls and offices of unions to which the Party members belong. This is where the conspiracy will be developed.

THE CLUBS OR CELLS of two and three Party members will meet as though they had run into each other casually and were discussing Native Dancer's bum leg or the Dodgers in a capitalist world. In the big hiring halls and the day rooms of unions in New York, Chicago, Birmingham and coastal cities, groups of two or three politicalized duespayers will not be conspicuous.

Point of this strategy is to put on the spot any law enforcement officer who arrests them, any prosecutor who attempts to jail them and any government official responsible for the law banning the Communist Party. For any evidence against them necessarily will show that the Party cell or club was picked up in a union headquarters.

Then the Communists will shout that the law is aimed not only at their Party but at unions whose members were sitting quietly in their labor headquarters.

THE PARTY HOPES further to complicate life for enforcement officials by having its people set themselves up as official union committees wherever possible and as rank-and-file committees in unions controlled by anti-Communists. These groups may call themselves the "Committee for Better Health" or the "Committee Against Discrimination in Jobs," etc., etc.

Then the Communist Party will be able to scream that the government is persecuting liberals and crusaders. Thus the Party hopes to avoid identification of its clubs and to whip up labor support.

There are other security details. But more important than Party instructions not to use the telephone or mention names in the calling of meetings, is the drive for survival of such pro-Communist leaders of tremendously important Sovieteering unions as Harry Bridges, head of the West Coast longshoremen.

In past months Bridges has been negotiating with gangster-led independent longshoremen unions in an effort to find non-Communist camouflage by merging with them.

HE HAS NOW decided to call a conference of the leaders of 300,000 members of pro-Communist waterfront, communications, electrical and mine workers (not John Lewis' miners, of course). He hasn't definitely set either the time or place. But he wants the parley summoned shortly and would prefer San Francisco.

However, Bridges is running into that old devil, human nature, and the drive for economic security. As an old Marxist, Bridges should have had premonitions that some leaders of other Sovieteering unions wouldn't want to be seen too close to him.

Some pro-Communist union chiefs, who now believe they may be able to slip quietly into the AFL or CIO by making recanting noises, have sent word to Harry that they aren't enthusiastic over joining him in a defense conference. The decision, of course, will be made by higher ups.

And finally the Party leaders have let it be known that the time has come to push for a national "labor" party with all the undercover and public force still left the Commies. The Party line now is that the old parties can't be trusted and the moment is here for developing "a true united front party of labor and the common man."

"Labor must set its sights in the direction of a great party of its own," says the Communist Party leadership. There is much more, of course, in the secret directives, but to know the above is to be fore-armed against the Party's most dangerous tactics.

Two Children, Woman Drown Near Hamilton

HAMILTON, Ohio, Sept. 5 (AP)—A 9-year-old girl and her 5-year-old brother drowned today in nearby Indian Creek and their 30-year-old aunt also drowned in a vain attempt to rescue them.

Dead are Shirley Ann Smith; er brother, David, and their Aunt, Miss Pearl Whitaker, all of Hamilton.

The sheriff said the three had gone to the creek at nearby Reily where Miss Whitaker planned to wash her car. She had taken the children from a Sunday School class.

The children went wading in the creek. They stepped off a ledge where the water was only three feet deep into a pool where the depth was more than 12 feet. Miss Whitaker, apparently unaware of the depth of the water at that spot, jumped into the creek in an attempt to rescue the children and drowned also.

All three bodies were recovered.

Shirley Ann and David were the children of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith of Hamilton.

KILLED IN CRASH

BATESVILLE, Ind., Sept. 5 (AP)—Claude Downard, 47, Cleves, Ohio died last night of injuries received less than an hour before in a head-on crash on Ind. 46, 14 miles east of here.

Like the chameleon, the tree toad can change its color to blend with tree bark or the bright green of new leaves.

Body of Newark Man Hunted in Seneca Lake

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio, Sept. 5 (AP)—Sheriff's deputies and the State Highway Patrol today dragged Seneca Lake in search of the body of a 71-year-old Newark man believed to have drowned.

Ross Brookover was believed to have fallen in the lake last night while fishing.

A companion, Edward Ankrum, also of Newark, said he had been fishing with Brookover but had fallen asleep on the shore of the lake. Ankrum told officials that when he awakened about 1 a. m. Brookover had vanished, but his fishing rod was on the shore.

Labor Day

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

Labor Day thoughts of a Pavement Plato:

No holiday makes the average American more uneasy than Labor Day.

HAL BOYLE

He is getting paid for doing nothing but he doesn't know how to do nothing. He feels he ought to be doing something, no matter how little, to earn his day's pay—no matter how small.

It isn't his conscience that bothers him. It's his fine sense of artistry. He has perfected the art of stretching about two hours of honest toil over an eight-hour day. To do this takes careful planning, a great deal of energy, and considerable acting ability.

—:—

THEN ALONG COMES Labor Day and ruins his careful routine. He can't spend the day happily ducking his work, as usual, because he isn't even on the job. He can't impress his boss by picking up a letter, rattling it and looking at it sternly. The boss isn't around.

The boss has the same uneasy feeling, too. He can't go to the office and stamp around with an important look on his face to impress the hired hands with how busy and hard-working he is.

Both boss and hired hand know how to act in the office, and in the ordinary business office there is more dramatic acting than in three Broadway shows. But neither knows how to kill time except when working.

"What'll I do all day?" each asks himself.

—:—

CHANCES ARE THEY do the same thing. They load the wife and kids in the car, spend four hours caught in a traffic jam going nowhere, and another five hours in a traffic jam coming from nowhere back home.

Thus they get about as much done as they do on most work days, but they miss the office audience.

Actually, however, Labor Day can be fun if you remember Mark Twain's wise definition of the difference between work and play. He said work was anything a man had to do, play was anything he didn't have to do.

—:—

THAT'S WHY LABOR DAY is such hard work for most people—they have to take the day off. It's forced on them. But it can be enjoyable if you make a game of it. Here, for example, are a few things you can do to lighten it:

1. Spend the day in bed reading how-to-get-ahead books.

2. Get out the old love letters your wife wrote you when she was courting you, and read them aloud to her. An interesting family discussion will ensue on how people's qualities — and opinions — change through the years. This discussion may well go on through Christmas. Several Christmasses.

3. Write a letter to your congressman and tell him how much safer you and the neighbors feel since he went to Washington. While you're at it you might ask him to help you fill out next year's income tax. He'll probably be glad to have something to do now that Congress is out of session.

4. Pick up a fallen leaf from your lawn and study it all morning. Then spend the afternoon figuring out how you would improve on it if you were a tree.

5. Ponder the fact that in the whole history of the world a wife is the only form of animal life that deliberately seeks to work, and then only in spring and autumn when she is seized by a mysterious urge to clean her house.

HORSES DON'T WORK except under duress. Cows don't really work at all: they really enjoy turning grass into milk, and do it with a minimum of mental effort. The thoughtful look on their faces is just an act. They can make milk even when they're lying down loafing.

The theory of the busy bee and the hard-working ant is a legend. Science has found plenty of bees who are downright lazy. Same thing with ants. Some of them are not only shiftless shirkers—they are also alcoholics. It's true.

If you brood on this theme long enough, you will conclude that, after all, work is unnatural. Far from worrying over how to spend one Labor Day off from your job, you will begin to resent it that you don't have 365 Labor Day holidays.

But that won't keep the alarm clock from going off at the same time tomorrow morning.

West German Leader Issues Plea for Unity

Chancellor Adenauer Bids To Heal Rift With French Over Defense

BONN, Germany, Sept. 5 (AP) — Indomitable old Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has dramatically moved in with an effort to heal the widening breach between France and West Germany and to save the American-backed European unity program.

Suddenly reversing the tough talking tactics of West German leaders since France rejected the Europan army scheme, Adenauer is now waving a large olive branch at the French.

'Understanding Necessary'

He took to the radio to announce his continuing conviction that "an understanding between France and Germany is the absolutely necessary foundation of every European policy."

And he served notice that, in his view, "the great historic design of European integration" will not be killed by the adverse vote on the European army by the French National Assembly.

Still a fighter at 78, Adenauer thus made plain he has no intention of scrapping his—and America's — cherished European unity plan although many European statesmen are now writing it off as dead.

Speaks to French

He spoke over a nationwide German radio hookup last night—but his words were directed as much to France as to his homefront audience. They showed that Adenauer, contemplating the new European crisis from his mountain top retreat in the Black Forest, has decided that holding out a friendly hand to France is wiser than the veiled threats and harsh criticism thrown out by his government during the last week.

Since the French voted down the European army plan, Adenauer's government has deliberately snubbed the Mendes-France regime by publicly proposing talks among Britain, the United States, West Germany and the Benelux Nations on how to add Germany's strength to Western defense. France was not mentioned.

Call For Sovereignty

The Bonn regime also has trumpeted loudly for "full, undiminished" sovereignty now and announced that it would accept nothing less than full equality in defense with other Western Nations. Adenauer, in an earlier interview, charged that Premier Mendes-France wanted to destroy the European army project.

No such blunt talk appeared in the chancellor's radio address.

He emerged in the role of a conciliator, of the stubborn advocate of a new approach to European unity, of the great proponent of French - German friendship.

Instead of the club, he shrewdly held out—not one—but three carrots to those Frenchmen who fear West German rearmament. He said West German would voluntarily limit her armed forces even after obtaining sovereignty. He said it is necessary that a future united Germany remain firmly bound with the free world. He said his government has no intention of trying to isolate France.

What is behind this sudden about-face by the stern old German leader?

Time Running Out

Time is running out on the distinguished career of Adenauer, who is just four months short of his 79th birthday. He is now fighting the crictical, and perhaps the last, battle to save his European unity program. Facing an important state election in Schleswig-Holstein next Sunday in which foreign policy is the dominant issue, he is stubbornly refusing to admit that French rejection of the European army may have killed hopes for a future united Europe. Adenauer clearly has decided he can salvage his foreign policy only through cooperation with France.

If Adenauer can save the concept of European unity through some new solution for West German rearmament, he will emerge as probably the outstanding statesmen and the most powerful political figure on the continent.

If he fails, Adenauer himself has warned that he might be swept away by a tide of exaggerated German nationalism.

Friendship With West

He is determined to lead West Germany down what he calls the only right road—friendship with the West and particularly with the United States. In a statement to the Associated Press he said

"The United States of America, the world's most powerful nation, has been allotted the historical task of taking over the leadership of the free world in the struggle for the preservation and safeguarding of freedom of personality and freedom of the peoples of the world from want and terror. The (West German) Federal Republic is happy that it stands on the same side with United States in this fight, which will also decide Germany's fate."

Adenauer feels the decisive moment in West Germany's—and Europe's—postwar history is at hand. And no one here doubts that one man—Konrad Adenauer—will decide the immediate course of events as far as the 48 million West Germans are concerned.

Gridders Begin Double Schedule--Classes and Drill Sessions

Marion's two high school football teams were set to resume grid drills Tuesday following a Labor Day layoff.

Pleased with their gridders' progress during the past two weeks, Coaches Pete Howison at Harding and Ray Robbins at St. Mary were preparing to switch their squads to afternoon practice sessions with the start of school tomorrow. Both have been on a two-a-day schedule.

While Howison was planning to instruct his Prexy squad on every phase of the game during the next four days prior to the preview tilt with Lorain at the Stadium Saturday night, Robbins was waiting to see "how many bumps and bruises" his squad had suffered in Saturday's scrimmage at Galion before he mapped out a practice schedule.

The two-hour scrimmage with Galion, according to Coach Robbins, went "pretty good" and he was "well satisfied" with the Irish showing.

Robbins' gridders crossed the goal line three times while holding Galion scoreless. Putting the ball in play at the 40 yard line, each team was given a series of 10 plays.

Three Irish regulars were missing from the lineup. John Messenger, Irish fullback, suffered a shoulder injury in making a tackle on the second play of the game but it was not reported as serious. Roger Micheli, regular Irish quarterback last year who is recovering from a wrist injury, and Jerry Ballenger, who lettered at guard last year, were idle. Ballenger suffered a cut between his eyes at a recent scrimmage which required four stitches. However, Robbins said both would be ready for practice Tuesday and expected Micheli, who hasn't had any contact work all year, to be ready sometime this week.

Robbins remarked that "all in all, the kids did good" as he spoke of his green squad. He was particularly impressed with the running of Don Shearer and Jerry Cornely, two young backs. He also cited John Spangler and Bob McMahan's running from the fullback and quarterback slots.

Robbins used his entire varsity but started Gary Howman and Richard Micheli at ends, Dick Mounts and John Kelly at tackles, Dave Kraft and Jon Smith in Ballenger's spot at guards, Bill Tobin at center, Shearer and Cornely at halfbacks, McMahan at quarterback and Spangler at fullback on offense.

Defensive starters were Mounts and Micheli at ends, Butch Simpson and Kelly at tackles, Smith and Frank Grace at guards, Kraft and McMahan at linebackers, Shearer and Cornely at halfbacks, and Jim Campton, who has been troubled by a bad ankle, at safety. Francis Thome saw a lot of action at halfback and linebacker positions and drew praise by Robbins.

Meanwhile, Howison named his probable starting lineups for the preview tilt at the Stadium Saturday.

On offense, he named Ted Firstenberger and Fred Hazen at ends, Frank D'Eramo and Larry Harper at tackles, Abner Thomas and Larry Sager at guards, Bob Caldwell at center, Joe Snouffer at quarterback, Chet King and Joe Albinack at halfbacks and Gary Ballinger at fullback.

His defensive alignment will consist of Firstenberger and D'Eramo at ends, Bob Prater Harper at the middle guard post, and Jim Peacock at tackles, Thomas, Hank Rinner and Gary Huber at linebackers, Ballinger and either King or Albinack at halfbacks and Snouffer at safety.

Howison said, however, the lineup was based on the boys' showing up to last week. He added that Gene Armstrong and Bob Stauffer, regular ends last year who have been slowed down this year by injuries, are possibilities at end as is Don Schweinfurth at quarterback.

King has not dressed for practice the past several sessions due to a shoulder injury suffered in the recent scrimmage with Upper Sandusky but is expected back this week. Phil Luke, fullback, is the only other gridder out at Harding. He is suffering from a twisted knee and is expected back in another week.

Howison is planning on working on a "little of everything" this week with special emphasis on kickoffs and pass protection. "The main thing now is to smooth things out," Howison said, adding that "we need a little more precision."

The Harding squad will swell to approximately 70 boys this week when the sophomores and few juniors who had been practicing separately begin drilling with the 32-man Prexy varsity.

Both coaches, Howison and Robbins have scheduled hour and a half long practices shortly after school for their gridders who open the regular campaign Sept. 17.

Howison has reminded Harding fans that the preview here Saturday would consist of two separate games. The Prexy varsity will play the Lorain varsity in the first half and the reserves will take the field for the second half.

This is in accordance with a state athletic association rule which states a preview cannot last over two eight-minute quarters. Each game will consist of two eight-minute quarters, Howison said.

Tribe Hikes Margin With 8-2 Verdict Over Chisox

Hitting by Avila, Narleski's Relief Work Bring Victory

CHICAGO, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians parlayed some brilliant relief pitching and Bobby Avila's four singles into an 8-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox today and stretched their American League lead to 4½ games.

The second-place New York Yankees lost to Washington, 5-4, to drop another full game behind the leaders.

Avila, in contention for the league batting title, slammed out four hits in five trips to the plate to raise his average to .334.

His second-inning single drove in Cleveland's first two runs, and his third straight hit opened the fourth and started a two-run rally that sent Chicago starter Billy Pierce to the showers.

Ray Narleski, Cleveland relief specialist, slammed the door on any hopes the White Sox might have held. With Cleveland leading, 5-2, in the fifth and Sox runners on second and third, Narleski relieved starter Art Houtteman, who gave way under a blazing sun.

Narleski forced George Kell to foul out and ended the inning by fanning Jim Rivera. He continued his mastery in the sixth by striking out the side. After issuing a lead-off walk in the seventh, he retired the next three men in order.

Narleski was credited with the victory, making his record three wins against two losses. He too wilted under the hot sun and veteran Hal Newhouser finished up for the Indians.

The Tribe jumped on Pierce for two hits in the first, but couldn't score until the second when they got two unearned runs on Avila's two-out single.

Sam Dente worked Pierce for a walk and when catcher Jim Hegan dropped a bunt in front of the plate, Pierce threw wide to second in an attempt to get Dente. Houtteman sacrificed and Al Smith fouled out, but then Avila looped his second hit of the day into left for two runs.

Cleveland added another run in the third when Minnie Minoso misjudged Wertz' fly ball, which fell for a triple. Philley singled him home.

The Indians added another run in the ninth on a double by Philley and a pinch single by Dale Mitchell.

Boston Homers Sink Athletics Twice 12-5, 7-3

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5 (AP) — Spewing home runs all over the place, the Boston Red Sox smothered the Philadelphia Athletics, 12-5 and 7-3, in a doubleheader before 5,788 at Connie Mack Stadium today.

Ted Williams was one of four Boston sluggers whose home runs accounted for 11 of the 12 runs scored in the opener. It was his 26th of the season and 36rd life time homer, coming in the seventh with one mate aboard. He went hitless in the nightcap.

Baltimore Nips Detroit in 9th

DETROIT, Sept. 5 (AP)—Dick Kryhoski's single to centerfield, his third hit of the day, drove in Cal Abrams from second base in the ninth inning today enabling the Baltimore Orioles to edge the Detroit Tigers, 4-3.

Lou Kretlow yielded seven Tiger hits, only one in the last five innings, for his fourth victory against 10 defeats.

Detroit gambled on starting 18-year-old Bob Miller, the $60,000 bonus lefthander who had neither a start nor a decision this season although he led the team in earned-run averages with 2.67.

Miller lasted 2 2-3 innings, giving up two runs, one unearned, on six hits and two walks. But he departed with a 3-2 lead.

Ted Gray protected the lead for 4 2-3 innings, but left with one out in the eighth after Bob Kennedy walked and Jim Fridley singled. Billy Hoeft replaced him, and pinch-hitter Jim Bridewesser singled Kennedy home. Hoeft became the loser in the ninth when Abrams walked and Chuck Diering and Kryhoski singled.

Forest Gridders Prep For Preview at Kenton

FOREST—Coach Allen Willoughby and assistant coach Paul Gordon have been putting the Forest Rangers through two practices a day getting ready for the football preview, which will be held Friday at Kenton. The Rangers will meet the Richwood eleven at 8 p.m. The Kenton Wildcats will clash with the Upper Sandusky Rams.

There are 12 lettermen returning to the Forest squad this year. They are Joe Conley, Harold Wedertz, Lloyd Waller, Vincent Cramer, William Wooley, Ronald Rizor, James Jefferson, Gerry Lehman, William Parsell, James Johnson, James Hamilton and Vernon Hemmerly.

With the 1952 and 1953 world football championship in their possession, the Detroit Lions face the 1954 season with three of their top stars called to the armed services.

Phillies Smash Pittsburgh for Sixth Straight

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies extended their winning streak to six games today by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates 12-5. The Pirates suffered their 10th straight defeat.

The Phillies got 15 hits off four Pittsburgh pitchers and Sid Gordon of the Pirates smashed two home runs.

The Phillies collected four runs in the first frame. But Pittsburgh came back in its half of the first inning with one tally.

In the fourth the Phillies notched three more runs.

Sid Gordon's 10th home run in the fourth drove in Franky Thomas who had singled and gave the Pirates two tallies. In the fifth the Phillies scored another when Bob Morgan smashed his 14th home run.

The Phillies scored four runs in the eighth frame when Del Ennis smacked a home run over the left field wall, with two on and Earl Torgeson tallied on an error by right fielder Ward.

Gordon smashed his second home run of the game and his 11th for the season in the eighth inning with one on.

FISH TOO BIG FOR PRIZE

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — George Lessard entered the biggest rockfish in Virginia's big rockfish catching contest—and lost. Lessard's catch was too good. His 28-pounder was three pounds above the legal limit for taking rock. "From the standpoint of ethics Lessard should get the trophy," said Conservation Director Raymond V. Long. "But legally we can't give it to him."

Yost's Single Shoves Yanks 4½ Lengths Off Pace in AL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—Eddie Yost wrecked the New York Yankees today with a two-out single in the ninth inning that gave the Washington Senators a 5-4 victory in a pulsating thriller witnessed by 17,296 fans.

The defeat cost the Yankees dearly in their quest to overhaul the league leading Cleveland Indians. The Yanks slumped 4½ games behind Cleveland as the Indians trimmed the White Sox 8-2.

The Senators' victory, which gave them the series, 2-1, was recorded by Bob Porterfield, an ex-Yankee who made his first relief pitching appearance of the year.

The rival managers, Casey Stengel of the Yanks and Bucky Harris of the Senators, played this one out in a real battle of wits, but when it came right down to it, it was strictly percentage baseball that paid off.

Ed FitzGerald opened the ninth with a single, moved up on a sacrifice and an infield out and scored when Yost lined Johnny Sain's first pitch into the left field corner.

The Senators knocked out starter Ralph Branca with a three-run first inning flurry and starter Mickey McDermott mowed the Yanks down with hitless pitching for the first 5 1-3 innings.

But McDermott lost his touch in the sixth and walked in a run after Enos Slaughter got the first and only hit off him.

Harris yanked McDermott in favor of Porterfield who gave up a two run double to Slaughter in the seventh tying the score.

Pete Runnels slammed his third homer of the year in the eighth to put the Senators one up again but Gil McDougald equalized that with his 11th homer in the top of the ninth.

St. Louis Rookie Posts 12th Win

ST LOUIS, Sept. 5 (AP)—Brooks Lawrence's steady pitching today enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to break a seven-game losing streak with a 6-2 victory over Chicago, dropping the seventh-place Cubs three and one-half games behind the Redbirds.

Rookie Lawrence, scoring his 12th victory against six defeats since he joined St. Louis June 24, gave up Hank Sauer's 37th homer and Ralph Kiner's 21st, but yielded only four other singles. He walked three and struck out five.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, collected 12 hits off three pitchers and pinned an eighth setback on former teammate Howard Pollet.

Brooklyn Wins 7-4 To Hinder Giants' Cruise Toward Flag

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Brooklyn dodgers bounced back after two stunning setbacks to salvage the finale of the three-game series from the New York Giants today, 7-4, and keep their faint National League pennant hopes alive.

Clutch hitting by Junior Gilliam and Duke Snider shaved the Giants' first place margin over the Brooks to four games.

Johnny Podres started for the Dodgers and pitched three-hit ball for seven innings before he tired in the eighth and had to be relieved by Carl Erskine, yesterday's starter and loser. Podres who underwent an appendectomy last June, was credited with the victory, his ninth of the reason and only his second since June 13. He has lost six.

Johnny Antonelli, the National League's only 20 - game winner, was the Giants' starter, but he had to be lifted for a pinch-hitter in the fifth after Don Hoak's lead-off triple in the Dodgers' half of the fifth, Podres' sacrifice fly and Gilliam's 13th home run of the season had powered Brooklyn to a 3-1 lead.

The Dodgers added three more in the seventh, shelling Jim Hearn out of the box and continuing the assault on Hoyt Wilhelm. An error by Alvin Dark was followed by a walk to Podres and successive singles by Gilliam, Pee Wee Reese and Snider.

The loss was charged to Antonelli, his fourth of the campaign.

Golfers at Country Club Enter Final-Round Play

The teams of Russ Reichardt and Robert Hastings and Thayer Martin and Robert Bagley top the early finishers in a 36-hole best ball tournament at the Marion Country Club.

The two teams finished the three-day event deadlocked with rounds of 65 and 63 for 128 final scores. Jack Stoddard, pro at the country club, said about half of the 33-team field had finished and the remainder would play their second round today.

Leaders of the teams with 18 holes remaining are Jay Maish Jr. and James Woods Jr. with a 60 while two teams, Warren Rowley and Carl Sheche and Lou Cummins and Gib Herr, are tied with 63's.

A recent study of athletes indicates that deterioration of their bodies in later life was due to excesses in eating, drinking and smoking rather than to early athletics. Those who remained active athletes were in better condition than average men of the same age.

Bolt Captures Title in Akron Links Tourney

AKRON, Ohio, Sept. 5 (AP)—Tommy Bolt, the reformed club-thrower from Houston, Tex., today won the Rubber City Open golf tournament with a 72-hole of 265.

He was 23 under par for the 6,620-yard Firestone Country Club par-72 layout as he won by five strokes over fellow Texan Fred Hawkins of El Paso.

Bolt led a parade of par-busting professionals through the tournament. The play-for-pay group gathered 1,129 birdies, 45 eagles and one hole in one as they scrambled for the $15,000 in prize money. Bolt's award of $2,400 gave him $16,152 for the year and placed him sixth in the PGA money-won list.

The Torrid Texan, who fired a course record 63 in yesterday's third round, came back with eight birdies and 10 pars today for a 64 as he won going away.

Hawkins picked up $1 800 for four sub-par rounds and a 270 total, and Fred Wampler fo Indianapolis received $1,400 for his third-place finish at 271.

Four strokes back of Wampler, deadlocked at 275, were Earl Stewart of Dallas, a former national intercollegiate champion; Dave Doublas of Grossingers, N. Y., the tournament's thin man; and Ed Oliver of Lemont, Ill., the most corpulent of the competitors. Each of the three won $1,000

National Open champion Ed Furgol of St. Louis, after skidding over par with a 73 in the first round, tacked together three par-breaking rounds for a 276 total to tie Jerry Kesselring of Toronto, Canada; Doug Ford of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., and Bud Holscher of Santa Monica, Calif.

Fred (Rick) Jones of Youngstown, a member of Ohio State's Big Ten champions, led the amateur contingent with 286. Second was Andy Hlas of Barberton with 287, and Toledo's Frank Stranahan was third with 288, even par

Richwood Fair Race Program To End Today

RICHWOOD — Marysville, Columbus, Wapakoneta, Galena and Sardinia, O., owned horses walked off with trophies and most of the purse money in the harness racing program at the Richwood Fair Saturday afternoon.

The final speed program is scheduled today at the Fairgrounds beginning at 2 p.m.

Only two of the horses were able to win both heats of their races Saturday. Hansome Gratten, owned by Paul Evarts of Galena, won both heats of the first division of the 24 pace with times of 2:10 3-5 and 2:11. Shangri-La Sue, owned by Viola Thomas of Columbus, dashed to victory in both heats of the other division of that race in times of 2:11 3-5 and 2:12.

Only Marion horse to place Saturday was Darlene Volo, owned by Lou Wickersham, which came in third in both heats of the second division of the 24 trot. On the basis of the best time in the heats, Dan Tucker, owned and driven by Rollo Graham of Marysville, was declared the winner.

Winners of trophies in the other two races were Vilhawin, owned by Roy and Earl Frye of Sardinia, O., in the two-year-old and 30 class trot, and Volo M, owned by Martin Katter of Wapakoneta, in the first division of the 24 trot.

Best time of the day belonged to Vilhawin in winning the second heat of the two-year-old and 30 class trot in 2:10.

Chinese Reducing Forces in Korea

TOKYO, Monday, Sept. 6 (AP) — Peiping Radio said last night seven Red Chinese divisions will be withdrawn from North Korea during the next two months.

Advance announcement of the purported Red troop movement was unusual. Such redeployments usually are kept secret.

It possibly was intended as propaganda aimed at countering the imminent withdrawal of four U.S. divisions from Korea and Japan.

Hank's Trades Big Factor in Indians' Drive

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—One hesitates at this point to suggest that Hank Greenberg, the old home run slugger, has yet got as many wheels turning in his head as George Weiss, the one man brain trust of the Yankees, but there are strong indications Hank is catching up fast as his rebuilt Cleveland Indians drive toward the pennant.

The fact that the boss of the Tribe hasn't traded away a Minnie Minoso for a second ear trumpet for several seasons now is significant. He learned the hard way, but he learned. The beating that the big fellow took after his early deals turned sour apparently only made him the more determined to prove that a former star player could match grey matter with men who had spent their baseball lives trying to outslick the other fellow.

At the moment, Hank s top farm club, Indianapolis, is leading the American Assn., race by a healthy margin, while the Yankees' Kansas City branch factory is floundering in the second division. The Indians received more important young help from Indianapolis this season than the Yanks did from Kansas City.

The Yanks, knowing they were on the verge of being caught with a slightly decadent pitching staff, passed up a chance to bid for Art Houtteman when Detroit decided to let that young man go. Greenberg grabbed him in a major deal.

When Detroit cut veteran Hal Newhouser loose, and the southpaw was trying hard to make a connection, Hank was the one who invited him to the Indians' training camp for a tryout. Maybe it was just a friendly gesture toward a former teammate, but Prince Hal has rewarded Hank by turning in some of the finest relief work in the league.

As the Injuns go into the final crucial weeks, with the Yanks still hanging grimly in there, this last could become extremely important. As long as Manager Al Lopez can go into each big series, including his final doubleheader against the Yanks Sept. 12, with Mike Garcia, Early Wynn and Bob Lemon rested and ready, there is little chance that his club will be stampeded.

Further evidence that Greenberg has been in there thinking right along with Weiss reecntly is the fine job turned in by the veteran Sam Dente at shortstop since George Strickland suffered a broken jaw. This time when a crisis arose it was the Indians who had a man sitting on their bench who could go in there and play championship ball under pressure.

The emergence of Vic Wertz as a varsity first-baseman marks another sound acquisition by Hank, though Manager Lopez deserves a few bouquets on that one, too. It is doubtful that any other club in the league would have put in a serious bid for the veteran outfielder.

When it finally became all too plain that the Indians were not going to win a pennant with Al Rosen struggling like a fish out of water at first, and probably not with Bill Glynn there, either, it became a case of pulling a first-sacker out of the air in a hurry, or else.

That almost literally is what Lopez did. He asked Wertz if he had ever played the position. Vic said no, but that he would like to give it a whirl.

Welters, Light Heavies Clash In Ring Cards

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP)—A welterweight clash between Carmen Basilio and Carmine Fiore and a lightweight contest featuring Paul Andrews and Bobby Hughes top the week's boxing program.

Basilio, top-ranking 147 - pound contender from Canastota, N. Y., risks a possible title shot against the left hooking Fiore from Brooklyn, in a 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden Friday night. It will be on NBC radio and TV at 9 p. m., EST. Basilio stopped Fiore in the ninth round 17 months ago but the swarthy Brooklynite is always dangerous.

Andrews, third ranking 175-pounder from Buffalo, and Hughes, the No. 10 man from Warren, Ohio, are a couple of hard hitting youngsters who should provide plenty of fireworks in the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night. The fight will be on CBS-TV at 9 p. m., EST.

Another return bout between two solid punchers, jumping Joe Miceli of New York and Wallace (Bud) Smith of Cincinnati, tops the Saturday night show out of Cincinnati's Music Hall—ABC-TV, 8 p. m., EST. Miceli, a welter, knocked out the sixth-ranking lightweight in the fifth round last February.

Teddy (Red Top) Davis, the ever-ready featherweight contender from Hartford, Conn., mixes with Montreal's Armand Savoie in a 10 at New York's St. Nicholas Arena Monday night—Dumont-TV, 9 p. m. EST.

Seixas Meets Aussie Star in National Finals

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 5 (AP) — Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, "forgotten man" of American tennis, bounded into the finals of the National Championships for the third time today to find himself face-to-face with Australia's brightest new star, Rex Hartwig.

Counted out after his dismal Davis Cup slump last winter and subsequent failures, Seixas pulled off some of the most sparkling tennis of his career to beat young Hamilton Richardson, intercollegiate champion from Baton Rouge, La., in the semifinals, 6-3, 12-14, 8-6, 6-2.

Hartwig, upset conqueror of defending champion Tony Trabert yesterday, continued his brilliant shotmaking to oust Ken Rosewall, fellow Australian, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

They will meet at approximately 2 p.m. tomorrow for the championship.

The women's final will be strictly "old hat" with Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., facing Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla.

Miss Brough, 1947 champion, defeated Darlene Hard, 18-year-old rising star of Montebello, Calif., 6-2, 6-3. Miss Hart crushed Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, 6-2, 6-0

Seixas, 1953 Wimbledon champion and former U.S. Davis Cup captain, was beaten in the finals of the 1951 championship by Australia's Frank Sedgman. Last year he lost in straight sets to Trabert.

Hartwig is 25 and a "second string" member of the Australian Davis Cup team which features Lew Hoad and Rosewall in singles roles. In recent months he has grabbed increasingly more attention from Australian selectors and is bidding strongly for a cup spot.

Richardson, double-faulting once and netting two weak volleys, dropped his delivery in the fourth game of the opening set and cracked Seixas' spinning twist service in the 26th game of the second set after the tall Philadelphian had fought off six set points.

The turning point in the match came in the third set when Richardson, gulping quinine pills to combat fatigue, had Seixas cornered and let him slip away.

The freckled Tulane University star, not as sharp as in his upset triumph over Australia's Hoad last Thursday, ran up a 4-1 lead and had one set point which he couldn't make good.

In this set, after taking lead on a fourth game service break, Richardson seemed to relax, confident he could hold his delivery until the set expired.

Instead, Seixas, with a burst of fresh inspiration, broke Richardson at love in the ninth game and then won the 11th with five straight points after Ham had taken a 40-0 lead.

This swift turn of the tide seemed to take the starch from Richardson's game. Seixas fought off a set point in the 12th game, broke again in the 15th and ran out the set.

Then, after intermission, he breezed through the fourth set in 17 minutes, breaking Richardson's service in the first and seventh games.

'Kloo' Belts 2 Homers; Cincy Bumped Twice

CINCINNATI, Sept. 5 (AP)—Jack Dittmer, Eddie Mathews and Ted Kluszewski each hit two home runs today as the Milwaukee Braves took a doubleheader from the Cincinnati Redlegs, 11-8 and 9-7.

Kluszewski's round - trippers raised his total for the year to 44 to put him firmly in the lead of the National League home run race. Both blows were in losing causes; however, as the Braves mauled six Red pitchers for 16 hits in the opener and tagged four hurlers for 15 hits in the nightcap.

The Braves virtually homered the Reds to death as they collected a total of six in both games.

In the seventh of the nightcap the Braves exploded for seven runs on six hits off Bud Podbielan and Corky Valentine, including homers by Mathews, Del Crandall and Dittmer, to virtually assure victory.

Johnny Logan was thrown out for the second time in the series in the third frame of the nightcap, when he protested too vigorously on a play at second base in which Kluszewski was safe stretching a single. Logan was also ejected Friday night during a free-for-all.

Kluszewski and Dittmer split their round trippers between the two games, but Mathews got both of his in the second.

Warren Spahn worked in both games, failing to finish a starting assignment in the first but notching his 18th win of the year with a relief job in the nightcap.

Browns Bow 39-21 To San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5 (AP)—Brilliant running by halfback Hugh McElhenny led the San Francisco 49ers to a 39-21 victory over the Cleveland Browns in a National Football exhibition game at Kezar Stadium today.

It was the fifth straight exhibition victory for the 49ers and the second successive defeat for the once invincible Browns.

McElhenny broke through the middle and outraced the Cleveland secondary for 71 yards and a touchdown in the third quarter, set up another 49er score with a 44 yard run, and started a third touchdown drive with a 45-yard kickoff return.

NOTICE

Notice is given that The Drambuie Liqueur Company, Ltd. 12 York Place, Edinburgh, Scotland, has filed with the Secretary of State of Ohio its trade-mark label design for use on alcoholic beverages.

STEVE CANYON By Milton Caniff

WHY THE GROANS IN THE RADIO SHACK?
WELL, MISS MIZZOU BOUGHT THE ONLY TICKET ON CANYON'S FIRST PAYLOAD FLIGHT UP TO THE DIGGIN'S...
...AND NOW CANYON JUST CALLED IN—SAYING THERE IS A DISTRESS SIGN ON THE N.W. SHORE OF MAPLE LAKE...ANYONE WHO BELIEVES THAT WILL PLEASE STAND ON HIS HEAD!
NOBODY AROUND, MIZZOU—AND NO SETTLEMENT INDICATED AT THIS POINT ON THE MAP... MIGHT BE A HUNTER OR TRAPPER HURT..
ANYBODY WHO CAME OUT HERE VOLUNTARILY MUST HAVE BEEN HURT IN THE HEAD IN THE FIRST PLACE!
HELP
LOOK, MIZZOU! —A WISP OF SMOKE COMING UP FROM THE WOODS!
I GET IT! IT'S A STATE-SIDE GUY WHOSE WIFE DROVE HIM OUT FOR SMOKING THAT OLD PIPE—NOW HIS RADIO BATTERY HAS RUN DOWN AND HE WANTS TO KNOW WHO'S LEADING IN THE BASEBALL PENNANT RACES!

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. Scott

SCRAPS
GENIAL. FAVORABLE TO GROWTH OR COMFORT; KINDLY; CONTRIBUTING TO ENJOYMENT OF LIFE.
GENIAL. ANATOMY AND ZOOLOGY OF OR PERTAINING TO THE CHIN.
HOW MANY MILES ARE EQUAL TO ONE LIGHT YEAR? SIX TRILLION.
THE FLYING GURNARD IS SO NAMED BECAUSE OF ITS HUGE WINGLIKE PECTORAL FINS. IT CANNOT FLY THROUGH THE AIR.
GENUINE "PANAMA" HATS ARE BRAIDED, NOT WOVEN. HATS MADE IN COLOMBIA AND ECUADOR ARE CALLED "PANAMA" BECAUSE THEY HAVE BEEN SOLD IN THE ISTHMUS FOR MANY YEARS.

BACKING HURTS

CHICAGO (INS) — Doing things backward has painful consequences for truck drivers. An insurance study shows they are involved in more accidents while driving in reverse than during any other operation. Safety engineers for the Kemper insurance group who have studied 10,000 truck and commercial vehicle accident reports say that 31 per cent of the mishaps accounting for 19 per cent of the total medical and repair bills were caused by backing improperly.

GOPHER TEETH

MADISON, Wis. — (UP) —The conservation department reports that a gopher's incisor teeth grow 46 inches a year, almost an inch a week. But the animal's incessant gnawing keeps the teeth at a usable length.

The milk output on United States farms in June, 1954, totaled 12.7 billion pounds, the second highest production for the month in 25 years.

'Break' for Salesmen Only a Delusion

Days of High-Living on Expense Accounts Are Over

WASHINGTON (NANA) — When the boss intones, "Simpson, I'm putting you on an expense account," it is only human to thrill as you would when striking uranium, discovering coffee, or otherwise coming into sudden wealth.

Imagine! Real money, free! You see yourself living high, spending freely, bucking the bill to the company.

You might as well enjoy this pleasant delirium while you may. It won't last long. All too soon you will discover that expense accounts have alluring reputations they scarcely deserve, according to Changing Times, the Kiplinger magazine.

For the most part, those rosy notions got going when many firms were making money in unaccustomed amounts. Up to 82 per cent of every profit dollar, moreover, was siphoned off by the U. S Treasury—unless spent on "business expenses" first.

Here, obviously, was an incitement to spend more and feed the tax kitty less. It helped the hired hands feel better about frozen salaries. And in the long run it might even help the business.

THE BENEFICIARIES of this easy-money policy responded handsomely. For the lucky ones who got in on the free ride, it was the kind of fling that dreams are made of. But it was only a bubble. And the bubble burst on Dec. 31, 1953, the day the excess profits tax died.

Something else has happened, too. Business expenses—the ordinary, legitimate, unavoidable variety—are costlier than ever, up 20 per cent to 25 per cent in three years. A salesman now spends an average of $16.52 a day in large cities, $12.47 in small ones. An executive lays out $28.33 a day in large cities, $20.76 in small ones.

What's more, headquarters is prodding the man on an expense account to spend sparingly. When the Dartnell Corporation surveyed salesmen's compensation in 95 companies recently, it discovered a significant trend toward such tactics as these:

Cutting travel budgets an arbitrary 10 per cent;

Imposing ceilings on room rates and meal prices;

Gearing expenses to production and charging employes for over-budget expenditures.

Publishing quarterly batting averages on expenses, for all to see.

TODAY'S RULE is the awful arithmetic of the accountant: every expense dollar must pay for itself. In a company operating on a 10 per cent profit margin, that means that every dollar of sales expense must be backed up by at least $10 in the order book.

Taken together, these circumstances explain why the men who once booked Pullman bedrooms are now back in lower berths. And no hotel sitting room suite awaits at the end of the day—just a plain single with bath.

Your chance to spend the boss's money may come either as a flat allowance or as a discretionary allowance. A flat allowance is easier to administer but is full of pitfalls. A man who can't make his allowance cover his expenses comes to regard his employer as niggardly. Others are tempted to "make money" through penny-pinching dodges like patronizing fleabag hotels and neglecting personal appearance. Either way, the allowance is self-defeating. Furthermore, there always is a built-in bias against the man who works an expensive territory, in favor of the man assigned a cheap one.

Such problems account for the trend away from flat allowances toward discretionary, itemized allowances. Yet there are bugs in that plan, too.

—:—

CUMBERSOME PERIODIC reports must be audited and each claim paid or disallowed. This leads, inevitably, to argument. Reasonable men can differ on what bills the company ought to pay.

The big question for all concerned is, what is a legitimate expenditure?

For tax agents and taxpayers this is a formidable poser. Taking note of "cases of erroneous claims of personal, living or family expense as business deductions," the Internal Revenue Service tried to make its view plain a couple of months ago. But the best it could say was that deductible expenses must be "ordinary and necessary" business expenses. Of all items in this category, IRS acknowledged, the most troublesome are travel and entertainment.

Since either your boss or the tax man may argue about which expenditures are "ordinary and necessary," you should keep a running record of all you spend in the line of duty.

A documented record will make it easier to deal with tax officials. Although IRS will not insist on receipts for every taxi fare, every meal, every tip to a Pullman porter, the more evidence you can offer, the better you will make out.

THE TAX MEN WILL NOT disallow an expense claim simply because you can't produce receipts for every penny claimed. But neither will they allow a claim on a percentage or other arbitrary base.

If nearly everything about expense accounts is open to argument, what can you do to stay out of hot water and still break even? Probably these four guides come as close as any to charting a trouble-free course:

1. Don't try to "make money" on the deal. Even a flat allowance is meant to be spent. Spend it because that is what the boss wants you to do. Making money on a discretionary account is nothing but dishonest padding.

2. Get straight on your firm's policy. Find out in advance what goes and what won't go. That will remove doubt and save embarrassing explanations later.

3. Spend when—and only when—you can see that the expenditure is within your firm's policy and promises to help the company do business profitably.

4. Record all you spend, report all you spend. You won't make money this way, but neither will you lose money you might be entitled to recoup.

Weights and Measures Play Major Role in Human History

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Accurate weights and measures, the indispensable foundations of modern science and commerce, are products of an ancient and curious history.

In this atomic age, when scientists calculate the weight of the earth, or the foot-fall of a house fly or the thickness of a soap bubble's wall, measurement has attained a precision that our ancestors would have thought impossible.

But measurement has been a necessity from man's earliest days, the difference being one of degree only, since the ancients lacked the delicate apparatus needed to do the job that modern science has to do.

Ancient peoples made the best estimates they could with such naturally derived terms as "foot," "hand" and "finger," all of which terms are still with us. Our 12-inch foot has historically varied between eight and 20 inches.

The Sumerians and Egyptians standardized the cubit as the distance from the elbow to the top of the middle finger, a distance which in time to represent roughly 20 inches. England's King Henry I decreed the legal yard to measure from the tip of his own nose to the end of his thumb.

A successor, Edward II, proclaimed Henry's yard obsolete and said it was thenceforth to equal the length of three barley corns laid end to end.

These yardage standardizations were supplemented in the 16th century by certain German surveyors, who dragooned 16 citizens into line as they were leaving church one Sunday morning and computed the length of their feet, thereby laying down the statistics of the rod we know today.

Considering the haphazard accumulation of mass and volume measurements, it is not surprising that weight and measure symbols still differ from country to country. Even the same words of measure have diverse meanings—a British (imperial) gallon is still a pint more than a U. S. gallon and the British bushel is still slightly larger than an American bushel.

Without mentioning vast New areas opened by atomic physics in the weight and measurement fields, the practical standard today over most of the world is the metric system.

Instituted by the French 150 years ago and designed on the meter to scale one 10-millionth of a meridian of the earth from equator to pole, the system computes by meter, gram and liter in units of 10. While not popularly implemented in Britain and the United States, it provides scientists with a universal, precise and convenient arbiter of international standards.

TREE TROUBLE

WATERBURY, Conn. (UP) —A tree felled by Russell Lloyd landed on power lines, cutting off service to 200 families, and he landed in jail. Lloyd was accused of stealing the $390 power saw he used on the tree.

TV Improving Reading Tastes

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Television has improved the reading habits of the average American, despite fears to the contrary, according to Emerson Greenaway, director of the Free Library.

Greenaway said television's effect on the reading habits of the nation is similar to that of radio in its infancy.

At first, the average American devoted all his spare time to television, he said, but when the novelty wore off he returned to books—better books than he had been reading before.

People realized that with television in their lives they had less time for reading and therefore they selected the books of a higher standard, he said.

A survey showed there is less reading of fiction and more of non-fiction now. This results from educational television programs which leave people curious about the subject, Greenaway said. For example, a nature program brings a demand for books on animals, birds, flowers and the like.

"We are delighted because this means the library, which is somewhat regulated by public demand, may buy better books," Greenaway said. "When the novelty wears off, the survey shows that television makes a contribution toward the life of an individual by providing material which will enrich that individual's life.

"The library's chief function is to provide those materials, too. More of our resources are sought as a result of the various television programs."

Greenaway said the survey at the library showed that in the first three months of 1954 there was a drop in fiction reading by 7,631 volumes and an increase of 31,683 volumes in non-fiction reading.

'Encourages Breakup of TVA'

Administration Power Policy Hit by Kefauver

WASHINGTON, Sept 5 (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) accused the Eisenhower administration today of encouraging what he called private utility attempts to "break up the TVA" through the proposed Dixon-Yates contract.

Kefauver said in a Labor Day statement he believes, "It is a time for the average working man and woman of the United States to take a good, critical look at what has been going on in the government."

He said that "nothing so highlights the new trend" under the Republicans as a contract President Eisenhower has ordered signed for the construction of a steam power plant at West Memphis, Ark., to feed power into the Tennessee Valley Authority system to replace power sold by TVA to the Atomic Energy Commission in Kentucky.

Private Utility 'Plum'

Kefauver, who was a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1952 and who has been mentioned as a possibility for 1956, said this contract would give private utilities "a plum worth between 92 and 140 million to them." He said it would aid them in seeking "to break up the TVA system."

"When such things are done," he said, "it's time for a change so far as the average man and woman—who doesn't own a utility company—is concerned."

He said that "a lot of us in the Senate and House are still kicking" about the proposed contract, despite the fact that Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) said yesterday that a new cost-sharing arrangement between TVA and AEC would minimize his objections to the plan.

Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic national chairman, has contended that the proposed contract involves a "raw deal" and a giveaway to a private power syndicate.

Mitchell May Testify

Mitchell is expected to air his views when the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee holds a hearing on the contract proposal, at a date yet to be set.

But there were indications that an agreement under which the added costs of the Dixon-Yates power production will be borne by the AEC rather than the TVA, may take some of the sting out of the Democratic attack on the proposal.

Democratic senators had contended that the estimated costs of $3,685,000 or more a year would raise TVA's average production costs and thus reduce its effectiveness as a yardstick for cheap power rates.

Backers of the contract proposal contend that most of the additional costs, as compared with TVA-produced power, will be accounted for in taxes.

Ike To Launch Atomic Power Plant Project

SHIPPINGPORT, Pa., Sept. 5 (AP)—A huge power shovel set in motion by President Eisenhower from across the country will bite into the ground here tomorrow, signaling the start of work on the nation's first full-scale atomic power plant

After a brief radio and television talk in Denver, Colo., the President will wave a radioactive wand before a special cabinet and through a system of intricate electronic controls, activate the big earth-moving machine.

The plant not only will be the first full-scale atomic power station but also the first to be operated by private industry.

Duquesne Light Co. will construct and operate the 45-million-dollar electrical plant. The atomic reactor which will supply the steam to turn the turbine and generator has been designed and will be built by Westinghouse Electric Corp.

Practical problems to be worked out at Shippingport, 25 miles northwest of Pittsburgh on the Ohio River, are expected to point the way toward many economies in the operation and construction of future atomic power plants.

Among those slated to speak at the groundbreaking ceremonies are Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, and Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY), chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy.

GIVES PERMISSION

UPPER SANDUSKY — The council of the First Lutheran Church in Upper Sandusky has given permission for the local kindergarten to use two rooms in the First Lutheran parish house to conduct the pre-school classes this year. The school this year will open Monday, Sept. 13, at 9 a.m. in charge of Mrs. William Dunn and Mrs. R J. Constien.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

A boy on a bicycle crashed into another on a tricycle. The result: a broken leg for the tricyclist and a $26,000 damage suit.

Earl J. Andrews

A pedestrian in Virginia is being sued for $10,000, for injuries to a cyclist which his alleged jaywalking caused. He stepped out between parked cars and walked into the swift-moving bicycle. Two sportsmen were shooting at a target on a gravel pile. A bullet ricocheted and injured an adjoining farm worker. The court held them jointly liable for $5,000 damages.

Many more true incidents could be cited to show that everyday accidents can cause serious damage and lawsuits.

The Comprehensive Personal Liability policy is the answer. Accidents are not intentional. Due to "negligence", they happen. The only safe precaution is to be insured.

The CPL policy covers a wide range of liability arising from damage done by yourself or family or pets. Also, it pays medical expenses for guests or visitors injured on your premises.

THE AIR FORCE B-57 bares its teeth during a test flight before making its first public appearance at the National Aircraft Show in Dayton. Part of the craft's destructive firepower are the napalm tanks hanging under its broad wings and a lethal load of explosives in its open rotary bomb door. The door can be revolved in a few seconds to bring its bombs out into the open for release. This new mechanical device can also be removed from the plane and pre-loaded before being hoisted into position.

Dams, Locks Now Obsolete

25 Years See Big Change In Ohio River Commerce

(Editors note: Following is the third of a series of stories on the past, present and future of commerce on the Ohio River).

By HAROLD HARRISON

CINCINNATI (AP)—Commerce on the Ohio River is at a boom stage and a major part of it stems from an industrial expansion in the Ohio Valley which, in only the last three years, has called for an investment in 133 installations alone of $5,650,000,000.

When smaller plants are considered, the industrial expansion is estimated at 10 billion dollars.

The $5,650,000,000 figure, coming from the U.S. Engineers and the Ohio Valley Improvement Assn., includes $4,225,000,000 in new industry and $1,425,000,000 in expansions.

Three billions of it is applicable to nine government installations. They are:

A 40 million dollar electrical plant at Barton, Ala., on the Tennessee River.

A one million dollar industrial plant at Florence, Ala., on the Tennessee River.

Atomic Energy Commission plants at Paducah, Ky., near Portsmouth, Ohio and at Oak Ridge, Tenn., costing $2,678,000,000.

A 240 million dollar TVA electrical plant at Paducah, Ky.

A three million dollar Bureau of Mines experiment station at Morgantown, W. Va., on the Monongahela River.

—:—

THE REMAINDER of the projects include three in Alabama on the Tennessee River; one in Illinois on the Ohio; three in Indiana on the Ohio; 16 in Kentucky—12 on the Ohio, two on or near the Kentucky River, one on the Tennessee River and one on the Barren River; 14 in Ohio—11 on or near the Ohio and three on the Muskingum River; 12 in Pennsylvania—four on the Ohio, six on the Monongahela River and two on the Allegheny River; two in Tennessee—one on the Tennessee River and one on the Cumberland River, and 18 in West Virginia—11 on the Ohio, four on the Kanawha River and three on the Monongahela.

The Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce reports Cincinnati alone has had $446,967,488 worth of industrial expansion from 1933 through 1952.

Eight atomic plants of one kind or another either have been built or will be built in the Ohio Valley.

Over all, the plants planned or being expanded include those for chemical manufacturing, food manufacturing, textile manufacturing, general manufacturing, oil and gas facilities, power plants, railroad facilities and government plants other than power plants.

New McGuffey School Superintendent Named

KENTON — Kenneth Gartrell of Oakwood, O., was employed recently by the McGuffey school board as superintendent of the McGuffey schools, it was announced today by County Superintendent Frank C. Ransdell.

Gartrell succeeds James Shope, who accepted a position as head of the Bourneville Schools in Ross County. Shope had been at McGuffey for three years.

Workmen's Gains Noted

Labor Day Statements of Unions Cite Advances, Help Given Civic Projects

Leaders of Marion's union organizations today issued Labor Day statements citing organized labor's contributions to social and economic gains and its support of the local United Appeals campaign and its agencies.

The statements came from Ray Beverly, secretary of the Marion Central Labor Union, AFL, and John Burke, president of the Marion CIO Industrial Union Council.

IN HIS STATEMENT, Beverly outlined the history of the American Federation of Labor, described the beginning of the Labor Day observance, and cited the support union members have given to the United Appeals here, both as contributors and as board members of the participating agencies.

Burke also spoke of his union's support of United Appeals, which will conduct its annual fund campaign here in October, and described the advances made by American workingmen in recent years.

The texts of the statements follow:

Ray Beverly, AFL:

"The American Federation of Labor has gained its present stature and prestige with the nation because union progress has paced social and economic gains for every American citizen.

"If the American Federation of Labor had been content to achieve only an improved status for its membership and ignore community welfare or its obligation to the American people as a whole, organized labor would indeed be in a sorry situation today.

"BUT THE FACTS are that the AFL has a proud history of participation and working for improved housing, better schools, support of social security legislation, elimination of child labor, an all the other social improvements which were once bitterly opposed by special intetrests but which now have the complete endorsement of the American people.

"The AFL membership in Marion has and is participating in the voluntary health and welfare organizations financed by the United Appeals both as contributors and as board members of the agencies.

"The American Federation of Labor was the first labor union of importance. When formed in Pittsburgh in 1881 it was known as 'The Federation of Organized Trades and Labor Unions.' Five years later, on Dec. 8, it adopted its present title at a meeting in Columbus, O., attended by 25 officers of national unions representing over 300,000 members. It now has a total membership of 10,600,000.

"The custom of setting aside one day of the year to honor Labor began at the suggestion of Peter J. McGuire of New York in 1882, when he was president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and one of the leaders of the Knights of Labor. In May of that year he submitted his proposal to the newly-organized Central Labor Union in New York. It was adopted there. The custom spread to other cities. On June 28, 1894, Congress made Labor Day a legal holiday in the District of Columbia and in the territories."

John Burke, CIO:

The CIO has consistently campaigned throughout its history for social and economic reforms to improve the living standards of every American citizen and to strengthen the family and community life of our nation.

—:—

"WE IN CIO can proudly trace back those milestones of social reform and, in every instance, find evidences of the strong support which our union gave in fighting for social security laws, a minimum wage law, slum clearance and low cost housing—all those things which now are accepted just as rain and sunshine.

"The CIO of Marion is particularly proud of its wholehearted participation in the affairs of Red Feather services and its considerable financial support to them.

"Labor's increased participation in local health and welfare activities is clearly indicated by the many CIO men and women who are serving on the boards and agencies of local agencies, as well as the fact that our financial contribution to these vital services has shown tremendous increases during the past five years.

"Walter P. Reuther, president of CIO, has stated that CIO's interests are related to the entire community. CIO is pledged to join with other individuals of good will and constructive groups in drives against juvenile delinquency, inadequate schools and hospitals, and slums.

"For most Americans, Labor Day has become the last long holiday weekend signalling the close of the vacation period. However, many veteran labor leaders of Marion can recall earlier days when workers were haunted with job insecurity, and old age without sufficient income, loss of work without unemployment compensation benefits and a ten-hour working day without vacations or holidays.

"Labor has made significant advances since the first Labor Day in 1882. The outlawing of child labor, the enactment of minimum wages and House passage of the Wagner Labor Relations Act, Social Security, the enactment of workmen and unemployment compensation laws, all of these, have brought a greater security to the individual worker and his family, and in turn a greater stability to the entire community."

Program of Safety In Galion Schools Ready for Tuesday

GALION — The safety program in the Galion public and parochial schools, which is sponsored by the Galion Automobile Club is ready for the Tuesday school opening. Mrs. Grace Thomas, secretary of the club, reported today.

In the 20 years that the patrol has been sponsored here by the club, there has not been an accident to a school child on any school zone intersection where the patrol has been on duty. Last year about 100 patrol members were on duty.

The club also sponsors the driver training instruction course in Galion Senior High School, and the school safety patrol in the Mount Gilead schools.

"Each year the driver training course is becoming more and more popular," Mrs. Thomas said, adding that there are more applications than are possible to process. The instruction is a one-semester course in Galion High School with Ed Hixson as instructor.

The local school was one of the first in the area to adopt the course. A new 1954 automobile with dual controls has been furnished by the Galion Motor Sales Co.

Driver Training Course Gets Bucyrus Approval

BUCYRUS — A driver-training course will be given again this year in Bucyrus High School, school board members voting unanimously Thursday night to lease a training car from Huggins and Wingate, Bucyrus auto dealers, at an annual cost of $80.

The fee covers license for the car, dual controls and insurance. A new auto is furnished each year for the course. Alex Kish again will be instructor.

The school board also has voted to ask city council to erect a flasher light and necessary signs and station a patrolman near the Hill and Plymouth street intersections with N. Sandusky Ave. on the city's north side.

Supt. I. J. Miller pointed out that many school children must cross N. Sandusky Ave., which is a part of three state routes, and is heavily traveled throughout the day.

The Pisgah, Nanthala and Croatan National Forests, recently consolidated into a single administrative unit designated as North Carolina National Forests, comprise over a million acres.

Steel Demand Strengthening, Signs Indicate

CLEVELAND (AP) — Signs of a strengthening demand for steel were noted today by "Steel," a weekly metalworking magazine.

"Steel" pointed to the steel ingot production rate, as a barometer and reported the rate rose last week for the first time in a month.

Sellers in various segments of the steel market are reporting slight gains in ordering, and were scheduling slower delivery on several products.

Nevertheless, because a relatively small demand for steel still persists, most plants were closed today, and some producers stretched the long Labor Day weekend by several extra days.

"Steel" reported that the national ingot production rate increased two points during the week ended Sept. 5 and rg ietsered64.5 ended Sept. 5 and registered 64.5 per cent of rated capacity.

The Inland Steel Co. of Chicago quoted five to six weeks delivery on cold-rolled sheets and strip, electrical sheets and coils and enameling iron sheets. Delivery had been four to five weeks.

Producers registered a slight increase in demand for merchant steel bars and plate, the magazine said.

"Steel's" price composit on finished steel currently is steady at $117.77 a net ton.

Everyone Who Labors

The meaning of Labor Day to more than 160 million Americans who celebrate it in 1954 is so different from its meaning in 1882 that only the name remains the same.

In 1882, the population of the United States had reached 62 million. There was a labor union movement of something less than half a million members. The backbone of the movement was the Knights of Labor, dominated by individualists with fault to find with the industrial system that had come into being after the Civil War. Many of the Knights were anarchists, socialists and intellectuals; almost none resembled today's typical union member, with his meat-and-potatoes approach to union membership.

Labor Day, itself, was started in New York City as a gesture of defiance. Although it now has been for many years an occasion to recognize the dignity of everyone who labors, it began as an occasion to demonstrate the strengths of labor unions.

In the United States, there is no stigma on labor. It is honorable to work. No one is penalized for getting his hands dirty. No human being is born into a condition of toil which he cannot change according to his taste and capacity. The class warfare that was supposed to be inevitable under industrialism three quarters of a century ago has yielded to an economic system in which the bulk of the fuits of enterprise goes directly to the workers who produce them.

The Knights of Labor never dreamed it could happen. The potentialities of a system of enterprise in which everyone can work with honor and be rewarded according to his ability were never understood. They still are not understood, but the misunderstanding no longer can be blamed on ignorance of what is possible. It now must be blamed, instead, on misrepresentation of what has been proved possible in a new world free from the hatreds of an old world that spawned Marxism as the only conceivable answer to the problems of industrialism.

Source of the Trouble

The personalities in the Army - McCarthy dispute were so newsworthy they outshone everything else in the final reports by the congressional investigating committee. They even outshone the nine recommendations by the four members of the Republican majority for the improvement of congressional investigations.

Since these recommendations will be harked back to long after all of us have forgotten who Schine, Cohn, Adams, Stevens and McCarthy were and what they did, they deserve attention. If adopted, this is what the nine recommendations would do:

Bar unpaid consultants from service with congressional committees. Forbid committee employes to make unauthorized contacts with policy-making officials of the executive branch. Forbid committee hearings outside the Disrict of Columbia without majority authorization and then only with two committee members present. Force committee chairmen to make weekly reports to other committeemen. Control the travel of staff members. Standardize rules of investigative procedure. Authorize the FBI to investigate potential staff members. Regularize relations between congressional committees and the executive department as to procurement of records and data. Cause committees to iron out with executive agencies the terms of procedure for investigations whes these become necessary "to the end that the public interest may be most completely served."

Examination of the nine majority recommendations reveal far more plainly than the findings of fact about personalities what Senators Mundt, Dirksen, Potter and Dworshak found to be wrong in the investigation of the Army-McCarthy dispute.

No Malformations

Further evidence that the "good old days" weren't necessarily good was contained in a story from Dayton that skeletons of Indians unearthed there had deformed heads, the result of binding the heads of papooses.

All sorts of malformations have been predicted as labor-saving and amusement devices multiplied, but it remained for the primitives to have suffered the worst deformities.

The old days were pretty much like the new days. People laughed and cried, according to circumstances, as they do today.

But if the old days were better, it should follow logically that the oldest days were best. Yet even in the time of the caveman, dire futures probably were predicted for the young. Some cave mother may have said to her eight-year-old: "That club is too heavy for you, it will make your legs bowed for sure." And the offspring would have answered, "Gee, Mom, the kid on the other side of the mountain has one bigger than this and he's only seven."

Within present memory mankind has avoided these ill effects predicted for him: Enlarged arms from cranking Model T's, atrophied legs from riding in same, oversized ears from listening to the radio, weak spines from soft mattresses, big eyes from watching television and deformed haunches from sitting on the floor while doing same.

Malaya in Strategic Role

By Arnold Brackman

Keystone in Southeast Asia Defense Setup

KUALA LUMPUR, MALAYA — Strategic Malaya, where Red Chinese bands have been waging an underground guerrilla war for more than six years, is today expected to become one of the principal Allied bastions in any Southeast Asian regional defense plan to check communism's southward flow on the mainland of Asia.

Preliminary talks, centered on Southeast Asian regional defense, are currently in progress in the Philippines with eight countries represented, Australia, Thailand, New Zealand, Pakistan, Britain, France, The Philippines and the United States.

Communist designs on Malaya pose no idle threat to most people here. In multiracial Malaya, every strata — European, Chinese, Malay and Indian — are in equal agreement on this point.

It was in 1948 that the Communists here, to distract attention from the Marshall plan in Europe, launched their guerrilla war with the aim of disrupting Malaya's rubber and tin production. Then, as now, Malaya was the largest dollar-earner in the British commonwealth.

The Communists have been shooting ever since, although not as loudly in recent months.

MALAYA, AS A British responsibility, will provide a Southeast Asian regional organization with additional strength through an enlightened government and a public aware of the issues. The British can offer a defense force of 300,000 men, slowly built up through the years of Communist pressure.

This force includes a home guard of 200,000 Malayans; a seasoned British jungle army of 50,000 troops, and a veteran Malayan police force, including Chinese units, some 60,000 strong.

Malaya's role in Southeast Asian defense was adequately described here in Kuala Lumpur, the Malayan capital, last May. At that time, outgoing British high commissioner General Sir Gerald Templer, declared: "Our role is to put our own house in order and to demonstrate that this is another country where the Communists have tried and failed."

Templer originally had been slated for a key post in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization defense but since that time the position has been withdrawn from him. At the moment he is on leave in Britain and this has led to considerable speculation here that the general may reappear on the scene in some sort of Southeast Asian role being mapped in the Philippines.

THE OUTSPOKEN GENERAL has long been a storm of controversy in this part of the world. By direct and "un-English" methods, he has, however, aroused considerable and widespread Asian support.

For example, this quaint capital city virtually rocked on its foundations when Templer first arrived and in short order blasted British colonial officials for playing so much tennis and golf. He told the Colonel Blimps: "Communists don't play tennis and golf. They are too busy. And they don't go to cocktail parties."

Although the Malayan war has eased considerably — enough for people here to think in terms of a SEATO — there is no complacency. Present Communist armed strength in Malaya is estimated today at "somewhere between 4,400 and 6,000 men." This is a considerable force for jungle warfare.

However, Communist morale, although buoyed by the Communist military victory at Dien Bien Phu last May and the Communist diplomatic victory at Geneva last July, is at a low point.

During 1953 the Malayan Communists purged their ranks. Fifteen per cent of all executions involved party members from the important branch committees and higher ranks. As a consequence, the Communists lack adequate top-level leadership today.

They are also short on weapons and ammunition. British authorities believe the Reds are losing weapons "at a rate which is bound to cause serious difficulties later on." And above all, the Communists are short on food and funds.

"These shortages may well prove decisive in the end," a source here commented.

UNDER THESE circumstances, the Communists appear to be closing their ranks. They are now trying to establish bases deeper in the jungle for regrouping and retraining. However, the British appear alive to this situation and have undertaken new operations in deep jungle.

These operations are being mapped by Lieut. Gen. G. J. K. Bourne, the man who took over the direction of the Malayan campaign from Templer.

Recently, Bourne's forces launched "Operation Termite." Hundreds of paratroopers were dropped into the deep jungle to ferret out Communist rest camps. By trail it would have taken these forces weeks to reach their target but an intensified air war is expected to hurdle the terrain handicap.

Royal Air Force spokesmen describe this operation as "intended to set the pattern for future operations in deep jungle, where the terrorist hard core remains virtually immune from attack."

There is considerable optimism here that the new technique will take the Communists by surprise and induce in them a feeling of total insecurity. It is still too early, however, to estimate the effectiveness of this new phase of the Malayan war.

Meanwhile, continued progress here in the campaign is offering open testimony to Templer's edict that this shall be "another country where the Communists have tried and failed."

Communist failure here is a major contribution to the preliminary planning now in progress in the Philippines for the whole of Southeast Asia.

Tito's Formula for Internal Security

By Mrs. Vera Micheles Dean

BRIONI, YUGOSLAVIA — The Balkans pact proves the possibility of coexistence between nations with different ideologies and systems, Marshal Tito said here in an interview a few days ago.

To be effective, international cooperation must stress political, economic and cultural — and not merely military — relations, Yugoslavia's president said. The pact, signed at Bled by Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey, he declared, successfully fulfilled his own program for promoting the peaceful rather than the military aspects of amity among nations.

The Balkan pact is particularly impressive against the background of guerilla warfare between Greeks and Yugoslavs which threatened the subversion of non-Communist forces in Greece a few years ago.

The interview with Tito took place at his summer retreat here.

Italian newspapers had suggested that the Bled pact represented a first step toward the entrance of Yugoslavia into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, of which its other two Balkan partners are members. Questioned on this point, the marshal vigorously denied the possibility. Yugoslavia is "irrevocably" opposed to participation in NATO.

NATO, Tito explained, is a purely military organization and therefore does not meet the requirements for international cooperation the marshal has set forth in the case of the Bled pact. Without solid political, economic and cultural cooperation, Tito contends, there can be no sound basis for defense against aggression.

He is backed in this view by the British, who have insisted that a Southeast Asia pact to resist Communist aggression must include political and economic aspects. U.S. Secretary of State Dulles moved toward the British view from his original stand for a purely military pact.

MARSHAL TITO gave as his second reason that NATO is avowedly an anti-Communist organization; and it would be impossible for Yugoslavia, which is proud of its Communism, to join an organization of this character.

When it was pointed out that the West regards NATO as an instrument to be used against aggression by Russia, not against Communism, the marshal answered that this is not the way NATO is described.

The marshal also said that because of its anti-Communist character, NATO negates the concept, close to his heart, of coexistence idologies — a concept embodied in the Balkan pact.

But, he was asked, is coexistence possible with Russia, whose government is regarded by many in the United States—not as an ordinary government but as a group of conspirators bent on subverting other nations? Is Sir Winston Churchill, when he advocates coexistence, showing signs of mental decline, as some commentators have suggested?

Marshal Tito emphatically declared that the issue today is "coexistence of war," and that for his part he believes it is better to coexist, or try to do so, with the living rather than the dead.

One can speak of conspiracy, he went on, on the part of some Soviet leaders, but not on the part of 200,000,000 Russians. In his opinion, the policy followed by Stalin has been defeated. Malenkov and his associates may not have changed their ultimate objectives but they have changed their methods and — he stressed this point—the new methods are themselvs beginning to alter the ultimate objectives.

Asked about the possibility of further expansion by Chinese Communists, the marshal said he tried to think what he would do if he were Mao Tse-tung. In that case, he said, he would concentrate his efforts on dealing with China's great internal problems and would not divert its resources to expansion. He added that, for his part, he has long advocated the admission of Peiping to the United Nations.

HE EXPRESSED surprise about American fears of Communism at home and abroad. Why, he asked, should a powerful, wealthy, great nation like the United States be so anxious about Russia when a small country like Yugoslavia, which is in the front line of possible aggression, does not fear subversion from within?

Above all, Marshal Tito said, he believes in building strength from within. The current drive for decentralization, with greater administrative autonomy being granted to local communal bodies and increasing economic reponsibility being given to workers' councils in the factories and to agricultural cooperatives, represents Yugoslavia's road toward internal solidarity.

While the ideas both of communes and workers' councils were suggested by Marx and Engels, the Yugoslavs, said the marshal, do not believe merely in following set patterns. They are adjusting these methods to their own particular conditions. The people are thus acquiring a stake in their own well-being and who, the marshal asked, will then be able to take it away from them?

Recalling Yugoslavia's long record of struggle against all attempts at foreign domination, from the Turks and Austrians to the German Nazis and the Cominform Russians, it is difficult to answer the marshal's question except in two words: "No one."

Mrs. Vera Micheles Dean, since 1938 editor of the publications of Foreign Policy Association, is the author of "Foreign Policy Without Fear," "Europe And The United States," and "Russia, Menace or Promise?" She was the first woman to give a course at Harvard University, where she taught international affairs with a full professorship. She has also taught at Smith College and Columbia University — among many other schools, and was awarded the Jane Addams medal, given triennially to a woman of "outstanding" achievements. She spent her summer traveling in Europe.

Historic Shrines

By TRUMAN TWILL

The fury of the hurricane that blew down the steeple of Old North Church in Boston last Tuesday probably blew some awareness of history into many minds that hadn't been aired out for a long time.

The airing was helped in my case by a letter my friend Ed Heald had written last Aug. 1 after attending Sunday morning services in Old North Church. He told how the 19 members of the congregation keep the church going by receiving the donations of visitors (127,000 in 1953) and the sale of booklets and cards. He described the service and how it has become a kind of common worship because the visitors who attend it are of so many denominations and faiths they are unable to follow the Episcopal service handily.

At the close of the service, he wrote, a crowd of school children from Tampa, Fla., and Cleveland, Ohio, flocked in and were herded next door to the parish house for cookies and iced tea. Friend Heald went along. Best tea he ever tasted, he declared. Made his visit to Old North Church doubly memorable.

Here is one of the most cherished shrines of American history. It had the good fortune to be immortalized in Longfellow's poem about Paul Revere's ride and the lantern signal in the church tower, moreover, in an age when it was no crime to let children know about such things. Consequently, millions of them learned about Old North Church the easy way and never forgot it.

The church was built to last in 1723 and has withstood the worst, except for the steeple, which blew down in 1804 and now has blown down again, after only 150 years. While there seems to be no question about its being rebuilt, because Boston is conscious of history, the mishap raises a doubt about historic consciousness in general.

We don't have much of it as a whole people. In some parts of the country, Old North Church would have been razed long ago to make room for a filling station or a doodad establishment. A fire marshal or a building inspector would have cased that restoration job on the steeple and ordered the whole thing torn down because it didn't measure up to building code standards.

Longfellow's poem commemorating the lantern signals flashed from the original steeple the night of April 18, 1775, would have been filed and forgotten. Or if it had been taught to school kids, some Bizzy Bee would have begun to buzz that it was harmful to international relations to review the unpleasantness with the British redcoats. The famous bells in Old North's steeple, all 7,000 pounds of them, would have been melted down for somebody's war. The thousand and more corpses supposedly entombed beneath the church would have been tagged a health menace. Old North Church would have had to fight for its existence.

I think Americans are going to feel the lack some day of a lot of historic shrines they don't have because they were in too much of a hurry to preserve them. In fact, they were in such a hurry they didn't have time to take note of the history, itself.

Sometimes when people wonder why no one seems to give a whoop any more, I wonder what there is to give a whoop about when everybody seems to be in such an all-fired hurry to rush forward from the inconsequential into the meaningless, without an instant's delay.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Letters of the Day

Dear LaBelle France:

Thanks for the memory, and I was lucky to get that. Perhaps it was right to dissemble your love but why did you throw HIM downstairs? I am used to being left with the tab, the pained expression and the "gotta-go note" but this time it really hurts.

You don't know how it feels to think that perhaps "Lafayette, We Are Here" should be sidetracked for "I Shucda Stood In Bed." To get all set for the "Marseillaise" and hear "Shall We Dance?" can be awfully disturbing. How unlike an ally can an ally get, babe?

I thought we were holding hands and it turns out you had rocks in them! EDC? What does it stand for? . . . Encourage the Downfall of Civilization? . . . End Determined Co-operation? . . . Exit, Darned Cool? . . . Are you saying what the crisis calls for is an "EMH?" (Every Man for Himself)? . . . Should it have been an "SLP" (So Long, Pals)? or an "IWNKY" (It Was Nice Knowing You)? . . .

This will have to be a short letter as I have to make an agonizing reappraisal, count my front teeth, have my head examined, find out who put salad oil in the compass, get a new check on dear friends who have gone AWOL, demand my money back from the merry-go-round operator and give immediate attention to the question: "Where am I?" "What happened to the lights?" and "Where do we go from here?"

Love and kissoffs,
Uncle Sam

Dear Foster Dulles:

Chin up! Stiff upper lip and all that sort of thing! No matter what happens you will hold the record for sustained flight while out on a limb. There is one thing about being in the Philippines: It takes longer to hear from Paris.

Dear Adlai Stevenson:

Almost 12 hours have passed without an attack by you on President Eisenhower, his entire cabinet, the Republican Party and the state of the union since you got left at the switch. What happened? Are you taking time out for a denunciation of Ike and Herbert's trout catch?

Dear F. D. Roosevelt Jr.:

So you wanna be governor of New York, the springboard to the White House! Yes, you are a Roosevelt and have the same two front names as popper. You have good looks, the Roosevelt smile, the Roosevelt ambitions and the Roosevelt political skills. You shave daily, have a jaunty manner in any crisis, sleep on your left side, are good to your mother and like outdoor sports. What are the other qualifications?

Puzzled Voter.

The name of a young prospector who just got $9,000,000 for a uranium mine found by him in Utah is "PICK." . . . Vernon J. Pick, of Grand Junction, Col. an electrical engineer. . . How does it feel, Mr. Pick to pack up, pull out, prospect persistently and pick a packaged pint of pickled millions?

A Harvard freshman who ignored seven parking summonses in New York says he made it a practice to file the tickets, wait for a good collection and then come in and pay up. . . As a Harvard man he probably takes the viewpoint that the parking ticket was invented by a Yale man anyhow.

Evan Hughes, a native of Montgomeryshire, North Wales, where he was born Dec. 9, 1837, was a well-known farmer in Prospect Township. His parents came to this country in 1838, settling in Delaware County. His father died when he was 11 years old and he was left the chief support of his widowed mother. When he was 11 years old, in order to keep him from idle company, she hired him out to a farmer at two dollars per month, for six months. The Evans family in Wales was an ancient one, the farm called "Nant J. Deffaid," belonging to the family, had been handed down from father to the eldest son for 500 years.

Radio and Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Confusion Reigns

There is in the mail this morning an agonized wail from a man over at TV Guide who was given the task of trying to make some sense out of next season's schedule.

J. CROSBY

"Joyfully, I went about my duties digging out the press releases, program notes and so forth, of what was going to be on TV this season. If I had read signs correctly, I should have suspected immediately that something was amiss as soon as the mass of material that confronted me reached over my head.

"I read all the stuff from the TV stations and the networks and at the precise moment I finished, that was also the precise moment that I acquired permanent title to most confused guy in the world.

"FOR INSTANCE — Tuesday at 8 p.m. this season means Berle most of the time, Raye part of the time, Hope some of the time and confusion all of the time—aided and abetted by Red Skelton. Or dig this. One network will do a 90-minute spectacular every fourth Saturday and every fourth Sunday, although actually it will be doing a special every other week because the first fourth Saturday will come the second week after the first fourth Sunday.

"Or is it the other way around? Except that every other Sunday it will be Jack Benny, if you can remember that on Sundays in between it will be Ann Sothern. But which is which Sunday? Every other Saturday, of course, it will be Jimmy Durante, and every other Saturday, Donald O'Connor.

"Forgive me for not going into the other days of the week. The two paragraphs above represent several days reading, cross tabulating and indexing and frankly I'm as confused as ever."

WELL, THAT'S THE WAY it's going to be, men. Gee, remember back in the dear old days of radio when you could tune in 7 p.m. and get Jack Benny not only every Sunday but every year, forever. Even the jokes didn't change.

While the new trend in TV spreads confusion among the program listeners, it is spreading ulcers all over Hollywood. It isn't easy to come up with a 90-minute color spectacular even once a month, even when you have $300,000 a show to throw around.

Ulcers and confusion, notwithstanding, the rest of us ought to have a very good time of it this fall, ending a summer that has been extraordinarily barren. Just to give you an idea, CBS has just announced some of the goodies it will present on "The Best of Broadway," an hour-long color dramatic series every fourth Wednesday, starting Sept. 15 (10 p.m. EDT).

"THE BEST OF BROADWAY" will be literally that with the best plays and the fanciest casts ever to be seen on television. Opening show, will be George S. Kaufman and Edna Ferber's "The Royal Family" with Helen Hayes, Fredrick March, Claudette Colbert, Kent Smith, Charles Coburn and Nancy Olson. Following that will be "The Man Who Came to Dinner" with Monty Woolley playing Sheridan Whiteside, the role he originated. After that will come Ethel Merman in "Panama Hattie," "The Philadelphia Story," "Arsenic and Old Lace" and "The Petrified Forest." What more can you ask?

Here's a little note from London. As in this country, weather reports are a regular staple of British television. The weather this summer has not only been spectacularly lousy over most of Europe but also spectacularly erratic. Just the other day, according to the London correspondent of "The Financial Post" of Toronto, a BBC weather expert stared hopelessly at a weather map, stammered, hesitated and finally blurted out:

"Frankly I haven't the faintest idea what the weather will be like tomorrow."

Border Attack Reported By British Protectorate

ADEN, Sept. 5 (AP)— The Aden government announced today that 15 Yemeni soldiers crossed into this British protectorate last Thursday and attacked people working in fields outside Marwaha village.

The announcement said government guards attacked the raiders "who retreated under covering fire from the Yemeni side of the frontier."

Fabulous Chinese Multimillionaire

Orient's 'Tiger Balm' King Dies at 72

HONOLULU, Sept. 5 (AP) — Aw Boon Haw, the fabulous "Tiger Balm King" of the Orient, died today. He was 72.

Aw was returning home to Hong Kong from Boston where he recently underwent a major operation. He arrived in Honolulu Aug. 25 and, three days later, became ill and was taken to Queen's Hospital here for additional surgery. His physician said last Monday Aw's condition was satisfactory but that because of his advanced age it remained serious.

The venerable Chinese became a multimillionaire through sale of his "Tiger Balm," a popular ointment for minor aches and pains.

In 1949 the late King George VI of England promoted Aw to associate knight of the Venerable Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem.

Notice of the promotion was published in Aw's own English-language newspaper, the Hong Kong Tiger Standard, known jokingly to Hong Kong readers as the "Tiger Rag." Aw also owned other newspapers in China and Singapore.

Known principally for his Tiger Balm medication, Aw also was widely known for his philanthropies and lavish entertainments. His motto was "What a man takes from society he should use for society."

When he celebrated his 66th birthday anniversary on Feb. 4, 1948, he entertained and fed 1,000 Singapore poor people of his own age or older. In addition he had 1500 person friends in for cocktails. He also at the same time opened a new home which had cost him $125,000.

In June of 1949 the Malay government barred Aw from territory of the Malaya Federation of security reasons. Aw said he had criticized the Malay government for "mass evictions of Chinese on the pretense of eliminating communism" from Malaya. But the government's action bothered him not a bit.

"I'll just ignore the ban since it in no wise affects my business and other activities," he said.

The ban against him was lifted two months later.

After the Communists drove Chiang Kai-shek out of China, they closed Aw's Canton Tiger Balm plant because he wouldn't buy "victory bonds."

Irish Farmers Harvest Moss

DUBLIN (UP) — Hundreds of hardy fishermen-farmers and their families on the rocky south and west coasts of Ireland are leaving their farms and fishing boats to become operators on a $40,000 legal "black market."

Every year, from June to September, they concentrate on harvesting black carrageen moss—an edible seaweed which grows on rocks near the low-water mark on Ireland's Atlantic coastline. They can earn up to $15 a day harvesting this moss by hand.

For years a forgotten industry, the carrageen business has suddenly boomed, with United States soft-food manufacturers as its chief buyers. They use it as a stiffening agent for ice cream and fruit juices and pay up to 75 cents for 14 pounds of the clean, sun-dried, unbleached black carrageen. They bleach it themselves to suit their requirements.

Formerly the men and women who picked it had to do the bleaching — to them a long and sometimes costly process, because one shower of rain during the bleaching period would be sufficient to ruin the crop. Without bleaching, the whole job, from picking to packing takes from three to four days.

Apart from the newly found industrial uses for carrageen, housewives are making bigger demands for it, as with womanly ingenuity they try out original and varied dishes to brighten household menus.

Conscious of the dollar-earning potential of the food, the Irish government is seeking swifter ways of getting it on world markets and is considering installation of carrageen harvesting machinery.

Already one private firm has been set up to sell the food. Last year it handled more than 300 tons, and this year it expects to top this target in dispatching the product to expanding markets at home and abroad.

Flying Cook

BRANDON, Vt. — (UP — The wonder of modern appliances!

Mrs. Francis Kierman of Andover, Mass., flew her plane here to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Barris.

But the pilot wouldn't stay for dinner. After all, she had four children and her husband to feed back in Andover—and she had put a roast in the oven before starting the flight, timing it to be done when she landed.

Pilgrims Pay Tribute To St. Francis Xavier

NOVA GOA, Portuguese India, Sept. 5 (AP)—About 13,000 pilgrims assembled here today to thank patron St. Francis Xavier for guarding the peace of this Portuguese settlement in India.

The pilgrims marched in procession to the shrine, where prayers were offered. Calm prevails throughout the settlement, which India demands should be merged with the motherland.

The Island of Cyprus was first leased to Great Britain in 1878 by Turkey and was annexed to Great Britain during World War I.

MR. AND MRS. GLEN E. HAWK of Cardington, former residents of south of Marion, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Maxine, to William C. McJunkin Jr. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Chester McJunkin of 406 Avondale Ave.

The wedding will be an event of Oct. 2 and will take place in Emanuel Lutheran Church. The pastor, Rev. M. E. Hollensen, will officiate, and the custom of closed church will be observed.

Miss Hawk was graduated from Pleasant High School with the class of 1947 and is employed in the civilian personnel office at the Marion Engineer Depot. Her fiance was graduated from Harding High School in 1948 and is employed in the accounting department of the General Telephone Co. of Ohio.

Mrs. Ed Paulin was re-elected president when the September meeting of the Socialettes, formerly the Family Life Study Club, was held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Strickland, 918 Woodrow Ave.

Others who will serve with Mrs. Paulin are Mrs. Harold Kingsley, vice president; Mrs. Daniel McClaskey, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Renee Dew, assistant secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. R. L. Cope, historian.

During the meeting, which marked the eighth anniversary of the founding of the club, a contribution was made to the Magnetic Springs Foundation, and it was decided to meet on the first Thursday of each month.

Mrs. Melvin Keoran was in charge of the devotions for the meeting.

The October meeting will be a Halloween party at the home of Mrs. McClaskey. Members are to come masked or pay a fine.

—:—

Election of officers for the new year was held when members of the Arbor Vitae Club were entertained at a 1 o'clock luncheon Friday at the home of Mrs. Lura Gruber, near Marion.

Mrs. May Fairchild was named president; Mrs. Matilda Sinning, vice president; Mrs. Harriet Wolfinger, secretary and reporter; Mrs. Ann Fettie, assistant secretary, and Mrs. Lura ruber, treasurer.

Subject for roll call was "Things We Have Made and Liked." Mrs. Sinning conducted devotions, reading the sixth chapter of Matthew and offering prayer. The thought for the day was given by Mrs. Margaret Zachman, president.

For the program, a letter written by Mrs. Ann Fetter on her recent trip to Alaska was read by Mrs. Alpheus Gruber, and an article on insurance was presented by Mrs. Sam Wolfinger, with a discussion by the members following. The next meeting, Oct. 1, with Mrs. Margaret Zachman, will be preceded by a 1 o'clock luncheon.

Mrs. Vernon Russell of 549 Delaware Ave. entertained with a dinner Wednesday evening at her home honoring Miss Joan Neidhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Neidhart of 211 E. Washington Ave., who is entering Bowling Green State University this month.

Miss Neidhart's aunt, Mrs. Harry Lauer of Prospect, entertained with a dinner Thursday evening. Attending the dinner were classmates of Miss Neidhart who also are entering colleges this month. They were Misses Anita Porter, Jerry Gillis, Carolyn Jones, Carol Hoch, Barbara Cornette, and Nancy Hammond. Also attending the dinner were Mrs. Neidhart, Mrs. Russell and Miss June Russell.

Marion Police Recover Stolen Auto and Truck

Recovery of a stolen truck and an automobile was reported Sunday by Marion police.

The car was stolen from Andrew Lawson of 481 Decatur St. while it was parked at Park Blvd. and Center St. at about 9:50 p.m. Saturday. He reported the theft to police at 10:05 p.m. The car, a 1953 model, was found abandoned on the Osgood-General Co. dump on Barks Rd. at 10:05 a.m. Sunday. Police said footprints around the car indicated it had been stolen by juveniles for a joy ride.

The truck was recovered Friday from in front of 528 N. Main St. A dump truck, it was reported stolen from Galion on Aug. 29. Both vehicles were returned to their owners.

Three Fire Companies Speed to $10 Blaze

An automobile fire with only small loss brought out all except one of Marion's four fire companies early Sunday evening.

The carburetor air filter on a car owned by Jackie Napper of 275 Davids St. caught fire in front of a Huber Mfg. Co. supply building on N. Greenwood St. at 5:03 p.m.

An alarm was turned in from a fire alarm box nearby, and firemen thought a blaze had broken out in the plant. Both fire companies from the Central station and Mark St. stationed firemen answered the alarm. They reported there was only about $10 loss to the car.

Piano Recital Presented by Pi Mu Girls

Miss Susan Kinsler of New Bloomington and Miss Jane Haley of Claridon were presented in a graduation piano recital Thursday evening at the home studio of their teacher, Mrs. Eliza M. Williams of 1096 Wilson Ave.

Both girls are members of Phi of Ohio Chapter of Pi Mu and of the Youth Group of the Lecture-Recital Club. Miss Kinsler was graduated from New Bloomington High School in May and will enter Ohio State University this month, majoring in music in education. Miss Haley, a graduate of Claridon High School, will enter Bowling Green State University this month.

Assisting the two girls on the program were a group of younger students, making up a piano quartet. They were Jean Haley, Betty Jean Ruth, Howard Klehm and Robert Griffith.

The program was as follow: "Pastel Minuet," Paradi, by the quartet; "Invention In F," Bach, and "Prelude In C-Sharp Minor" by Rachmaninoff, by Jane Haley; "The Jester," Beecher, and "The Gingham Dog," Samuels, piano duo numbers by Miss Kinsler and Miss Haley; "Prelude In B-Flat Minor," Bach, "Revolutionary Etude," Chopin, and "Berceuse," Chopin, by Miss Kinsler; "If I Were A Bird," Henselt, and "Kammennoi Ostrow," Rubenstein, by Miss Haley; "Beautiful Blue Danube," Strauss-Chassins, piano duo number; "Dawn Fantasy," Reiser, by Miss Kinsler; "Pomp and Circumstance," Elgar, by the quartet.

During the social hour which followed, P. D. Cone, eastern representative of the Pi Mu organization, gave a brief talk. Mrs. Williams was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. L. S. Balsley and Miss Mary Alice Boyd.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Cone, Mr. and Mrs. William Haley and daughters, Joan and Janet, Mrs. Milo Haley, Mrs. M. C. Haley, Mrs. William Williams, Mrs. S. W. Adams, Miss Virginia Ann Adams, Mrs. A. B. Augenstein, Mrs. George Tron and Janet Tron, Miss Jane Seiter, Miss Nellie Bain, Miss Lelah Leeper, Mrs. Lowell E. Williams, Mrs. Charles Haughn, Mrs. Roberta James, Mrs. Robert C. Moderwell, Mrs. Kenneth Kinsler, Mrs. Bernard Coon and Anita Coon, Mrs. Harry Steele and Mrs. Vesta Ruth, Ben Bechtel and Mrs. B. B. Miller of San Angelo, Texas.

An announcement was made of the installation of a new Pi Mu Chapter at Mount Gilead to be held Sept. 16 at the Trinity Methodist Church there.

CLASSES ARRANGED

KENTON — Classes will begin in the Kenton city school on Tuesday, it was announced today by Supt. Paul Oaklief. A general teacher's meeting in the auditorium of the high school is to be held at 10 a.m. Monday, it was announced, and the principals of each building are to meet at 9 a.m. Monday in the superintendent's office.

BIG DAY FOR THE COLLINS FAMILY. As banners wave amid the tumult of the convention at Washington, Seaborn P. Collins Jr., and his wife are happy about his election as national commander of the American Legion by unanimous vote. Collins is from Las Cruces, N. M.

-:- Church Activities -:-

Mrs. Mollie Wilson and Mrs. Lucille Wilson were hostesses for a recent all-day meeting of the WSCS of the Meeker Methodist Church at the former's home on Cherry St., Marion. Nineteen members responded to roll call.

In the business session, Mrs. Blanche Coon was elected vice president to fill a vacancy left by the resignation of Mrs. Lucille Wilson. Plans for a fried chicken supper were discussed.

Devotions on the theme "Except The Lord Keep the City" were given by Mrs. Catherine Metz, and the program topic, "Because Jesus Cares," was in charge of Mrs. Ethel Seiter, assisted by Mrs. Cora Barnthouse, Mrs. Metz, Mrs. Doris Sappington and Mrs. Dorothy Coon. A discussion on "Federation of Women" was led by Mrs. Lucille Wilson, and prayer was offered by Rev O. W. Robbins. The next meeting will be held in the church basement.

The dates for a series of book reviews to be given in Marion again this year by Mrs. Lloyd Beuthel of Sandusky under sponsorship of the Woman's Association of the First Presbyterian Church were announced at the Association's first meeting of the fall Thursday. The book reviews will be given Sept. 28, Oct. 16 and Nov. 30.

Mrs. Ralph Heischman presided for the meeting, the meditation for the day was given by Mrs. C. O. Phallen and a talk on missionaries for the day was presented by Mrs. Henry Mickley.

Guest speaker for the program was Mrs. Harold Mustaine of Bellefontaine, newly-elected president of the Presbyterial. Following the meeting, tea was served by Circle 6.

Mrs. William Ackerman and Mrs. Clifford Thibaut served as hostesses when the Philathea Circle of Emanuel Lutheran Church met Wednesday night in the educational building of the church. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. E. E. Blackford.

Plans were made to start work on the Christmas project, and it was decided to pay for six weeks of the daily devotional booklets which are sent to all church members. For the program, Elmer Bondley gave a talk on developing hobbies. He also showed several collections he has made. Miss Jennie Christopherson was a guest.

Garden Club Unit Names '54 Officers

A dessert luncheon preceded a business and program meeting of the House and Garden Unit of the Marion Garden Club Friday at the home of Mrs. Homer Waddell on S. Vine St. Serving on the hostess committee were Mrs. B. T. Wiant, chairman, Mrs. J. F. Neidhart, Mrs. O. C. Alspach and Miss Mabel Wheatley.

Election of officers for the new year was held with Mrs. William Hutchman named president. Serving with her will be Mrs. H. G. Duhamel, vice president; Mrs. C. E. Lockwood, recording secretary; Mrs. H. J. Merchant, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Rex Robinson, treasurer.

Announcements were made of three approaching events. A district convention of garden clubs of Ohio will be held Sept. 27-28 in Dayton. An invitation was received from the Town and Country unit to attend a tea Sept. 17 at 2 p.m. at the YMCA, at which time Mrs. Fred Rankin of Akron will be guest speaker. Another invitation was extended by the Good Earth unit to attend its meeting Sept. 21 at 8 p.m. at the Y to hear a talk by Arthur Smith.

For the program, slide pictures of the recent Marion Flower Show were shown. A guest at the meeting was Mrs. Frank Purdy of Cincinnati. The October meeting will be with Mrs. Duhamel of 663 King Ave.

Patrol Investigates 2 Auto Accidents In Morrow County

Two accidents in Morrow County were reported today by state highway patrolmen.

One occurred at the intersection of State Route 529 and U. S. 42 in Cardington at 5:05 p.m. Sunday. A car driven by Lucias Carroll, 60, Urbancrest, O., and an auto driven by George Washington Greenslait, 35, of Mansfield, collided under the traffic light at the intersection.

Carroll, going north on U. S. 42, and Greenslait, traveling east on 529, both claimed they had the right of way. Patrolmen made no arrests. Exensive damage was done to the left front of the Carroll car and to the front of the Greenslait auto.

Patrolmen reported a tractor-trailer and an automobile collided on U. S. 42, just south of the Mount Gilead corporation limits at 6:[illegible] p.m. Saturday. A car driven by Ulyss V. Edwards, 25, Mount Gilead was traveling south on Route 42 and attempted to pass a tractor-trailer driven by Delbert Shaffer, 29, Indianapolis, Ind.

Patrolmen said the Edwards auto cut in too soon and collided with the truck's front bumper. Moderate damage was done to the right rear fender and bumper of the car while the tractor was moderately damaged on the front bumper.

Edwards was fined $10 and costs for passing without the assured clear distance by Mayor Emery Murphy of Mount Gilead.

2 Boys Held in Theft

Two 16-year-old Marion youths were taken into custody by Marion police early Sunday morning and later admitted the theft of a leather strap, a screw driver, and a horse brush from a barn at the Marion County fairground.

The three items—worth a total of $4.75—were taken from H. A. Kuhl's stables.

The boys were cited to appear in Marion County Juvenile Court this week and were released to the custody of their parents.

ALL LIVES INTACT

CHESHIRE, Conn. (UP) — A Cheshire cat ran in front of Henry Antolnolfi's automobile. The motorist's foot slipped from the brake pedal to the accelerator and his car sped into a tree. He and his wife were injured. The cat escaped.

'Show Must Go On'

Ability To Improvise 'Must' in Theater

By SELMA MAVERICK

NEW YORK (NANA) — Life in the theater can be one mishap after another, actors and producers here recall. Yet the show must go on with no unintended titter from the audience. That's stage tradition—and sometimes it takes fast and brilliant thinking, never a moment "out of character." Sometimes whole scenes have been improved to "cover." Sometimes a bug has to be swallowed!

There was Kirsten Flagstad. The Wagnerian soprano was singing before 6,000 persons in the vast Brewer Field House at Columbia, Mo. She opened her gifted throat to hurl a golden note—and a vagrant miller-moth wandered in. There was not a quaver, nor a flicker of her eyelids. The tone floated clear and seemed to hover in golden particles against the rear of the great auditorium. Only a reporter in the front row seemed to notice the moth.

Backstage later, he asked: What happened to that moth?"

Madame Flagstad's eyes twinkled, and she laughed gaily.

'You saw that? I—I swallowed it."

THE SHOW MUST GO ON. When a lady drops her petticoat on the street, she flees to a doorway and passers-by snicker. But when an actress drops her petticoat on the stage before a thousand paying customers, stage standards require that she lose no whit of the illusion of the play. The play's the thing, and if a performer can't cover a misstep, a critical review is justified. Some clever "covers" are remembered longer than the show.

In the case of Miss Lynne Fontanne—she's the lady who dropped the petticoat on stage—she was playing opposite her husband Alfred Lunt at the Blackstone Theatre in Chicago. It was a Viennese drawing room comedy titled 'Caprice." There was Miss Fontanne looking her lovely self in a fabulous mid-length dinner gown, standing before a divan, exchanging barbed words with Mr. Lunt and—woman like—winning all the points. Suddenly her full, flouncy petticoat dropped to the floor at the high point in the repartee. Quick as a flash she kicked the darn thing under the divan. Not a word of the dialogue was lost, nor her audience's attention. Not a muscle of face registered anything but the emotion of her lines. Backstage she didn't even blame a maid because she couldn't find a safety pin. At the time it was harrowing, but afterwards both Lynne and her actor-husband recalled the incident with a pleasant shudder.

A HAPPIER ACCIDENT took place in an Earl Carroll 'Vanities' in which the beloved W. C. Fields was the star. Mr. Fields, never at a loss for an adroit line, was onstage when suddenly a part of the stage set—a solid wall of the room to the audience—started to topple. Quickly, Bill held the "wall" from falling on the stage, while unseen stagehands frantically secured it in place behind the scenes. Bill remarked confidentially over his shoulder to the audience: 'They don't build houses as well as they used to.' This really brought the house down, and was retained in the show for the duration.

In the current Broadway hit, "Oh, Men! Oh, Women!" which deals with the humanizing of a stuffy psycho-analyst, the 'expert' in solving other people's problems learns from a 'couch confession" that his fiancee has had an affair with one of his patients. He loses control of his own emotions, in a genuine male rage, and in a classic masculine gesture, plunges his hands into his pants pockets. One night, Lloyd Bridges, replacing Franchot Tone in the role, got only his thumb into his pocket. He tried so vigorously to cover that in forcing his hand into the pocket, he ripped the side of his pants clear to the cuff. The curtain saved him. Management, more interested in expenses than in art, complained that the pants could not be reseamed, but had to be rewoven, and requested a little less vigor in the future.

THE YOUNG MAN who has given the doctor such a shock, has troubles of his own, onstage. In the second act there is a great deal of coming and going by members of the cast. None of them has any difficulty with the door, except Larry Blyden, who gives an amusing performance as Grant Coobler, the neurotic exboy friend of the doctor's fiancee. The door always stuck for him. A special latch was placed on the offstage side of the door, manipulated by an unseen stagehand every time Larry made an exit. Now Larry says he wonders why playing a neurotic role should make him fumble an ordinary door.

Ethel Barrymore, that grand lady of the theatre, recalls the time she was giving a reading before a large women's audience. Suddenly, a black cat wandered from the wings. Miss Barrymore, old trouper that she is, knew she'd have to do something in a hurry before the cat got her audience. She scooped the cat to her glorious bosom and said, "Kitty, this is a monologue, not a catalogue' and a stagehand took over the Maltese. The audience applauded and settled down to its previous position—right in the palm of Miss Barrymore's hand.

Oscar Serlin, the producer of 'Life With Father' claims two records for that show: longest Broadway run, and greatest number of mishaps on opening night. The mishaps got off to a fine start in the opening scene when the timid maid placed a stacked tray too near the edge of the table. Amid the dying sounds of crashing crockery, Cousin Cora and her friend Mary Skinner, came to take tea with mother. Almost unnoticed by the audience, the three ladies picked up bits of biscuit, spoons, knives and an unbroken cup here and there, and played the scene without a quiver. Although it was simply miscalculation on the part of the maid, the audience probably thought father's bellowing had been the cause of the crash.

Mishap No. 2 was one of those cases of the memory going momentarily blank, which agonizes actors and speakers now and then. The scene was between Father and the minister. Serlin remembers the mishap vividly because he and co-author Crouse were standing in the wings and it seemed like 'two days" before the minister recovered his lines. During the interval—probably all of 30 seconds—Crouse ad libbed a line still famous on Broadway. It filled in the action and gave the minister his needed cue. He said: 'At this point I hit the floor but when I got there, I found Oscar was there first."

NOT EVERY PLAY as a co-author to improvise scenes when things go wrong. And in 'Life With Father," Howard Lindsay, the other co-author, covered when young Whitney, aged 10, the second youngest of the quartet of red heads, got lost in the backstage confusion of opening night and missed his entrance entirely. Lindsay, playing Father, improvised an entire scene—and acted it. Things straightened out after that. And no one in the audience knew anything unusual had happened.

Some performers are so sensitive to audience reaction, they feel something is wrong without knowing what it is. This was the case of Katherine Cornell when she was starring in "Anthony and Cleopatra." In the middle of a scene a backdrop painted to resemble great stone pillars suddenly began rising into the air when a "fly man" got the wrong signal. The pillars soared gracefully into the air for eight feet and then gently descended. During that rise and fall of painted Egyptian masonry, Miss Cornell held the audience solely by sheer magnificence of acting and there was not even a titter. Backstage, Miss Cornell's first question was: "What in the world happened?"

It's not for nothing that the motto of the theatrical profession is "The show must go on." Some of the best performances in the theatre have been impromptu, born in desperation to cope with situations that the most imaginative dramatist could not have dreamed up.

Police, Patrol Report Four Auto Mishaps

Marion area streets and highways were free of serious traffic accidents as the Labor Day week-end neared the "going home" stage.

State highway patrolmen from the Marion post Sunday reported only one mishap in Marion County. Marion city police reported three minor accidents. There were no injuries.

The county accident occurred on U. S. 23, one-half mile south of Marion at 11:35 p.m. A car driven by Arthur F. Beauparlant, 48, of Columbus, was traveling north on U. S. 23 and collided with the rear end of an auto driven by Donald E. Decker, 28, of the Milner Hotel in Marion.

Extensive damage was done to the rear of the Decker car and the front of the Beauparlant auto. Both cars were removed by a wrecker. Beauparlant was cited to appear before Municipal Judge W. Dexter Hazen at a later date for passing without the assured clear distance.

3 Accidents in City

Marion city streets were free of any serious traffic accidents through most of the first two days of the long Labor Day holiday which ends tonight.

City police reported only three collisions, none of which involved any injuries. Two caused less than $100 damage and details were not reported.

The other collision occurred in front of 199 N. Greenwood St. at 5:15 p.m. Sunday when a car owned by Jack Napper of 275 Davids St. collided with the city fire chief's car. Police reported Napper's car was parked and accidentally slipped into gear, rolling forward into the fire chief's car before it could be stopped. Napper's car had been on fire a few minutes previously and firemen were on hand to put the fire out.
